A Time to Every Purpose Under Heaven — As Seasonal

Every activity related to the school and the student body was important. Each moment of a school day was to be treasured for it was gone in an instant. It was as these many moments became days and the days became weeks that time passed so quickly. The months passed by as fall became winter and even more quickly as the spring brought summer. A year was gone. To recapture this year, the 1968-69 Tomahawk staff chose the theme "Seasons."

Everyday routine was broken by the exciting activities found in special seasonal events. Athletic competition, in all types of weather, attracted throngs of people. Class rivalry encouraged school spirit. Clubs provided an opportunity to better oneself. The social activities gave pleasure to students and faculty alike. All was a seasonal cycle of school life.

Accompaning the band in the Carolinas' Carrousel Parade, the Indian lettergirls add to the thrill of Thanksgiving.

S. Powell checks out Christmas cards and gift wrap from E. Ross, the proceeds going toward the Junior-Senior.

An exciting summer awaiting him, Russell Calomeris makes his way to the parking lot on the last day of school.

The excitement of an unexpected snow brought an occasional snowball fight among students on their way to class.

After the pre-game introduction of the starting five, Indian basketball players give the traditional "skin" as the cheerleaders enthusiastically shout their support in anticipation of an exciting game.

Students Express Views In Mock Presidential Election

The addition of sophomores to the Indian tribe marked the beginning of the fall season. They soon became involved in scholastic and extracurricular activities of the school.

Combining strength and skill, the football team bounded to a successful season. Homecoming activities were climaxed by the crowning of a new queen during half-time in the game against South Mecklenburg.

Both faculty and students enthusiastically participated in a Tacky Indian Day sponsored by the student council.

Annual events included the Thanksgiving parade and pancake supper. West was well represented by a princess in the Carrousel. The pancake supper was sponsored by the Booster Club. Key Club members carried out assigned duties to assist.

This being an election year, students expressed preference for a particular candidate in a mock presidential election held prior to the national elections.

As the Poor Souls provide an evening of musical entertainment, students and faculty members display their finest dance steps at the Homecoming dance on Halloween night, prior to the South Mecklenburg game.

Highlighting the winter season, the Christmas Dance offered students and faculty a gala night of songs and dances.

Anita Gillespie, Michele Hill, and Cheri Sherrill brave the cold as they make their way to morning classes.

Winter Creates Wonderland with Social, Athletic Events

As an unexpected snow storm unofficially marked the beginning of the winter season, students quickly began to anticipate the exciting days promised in the season.

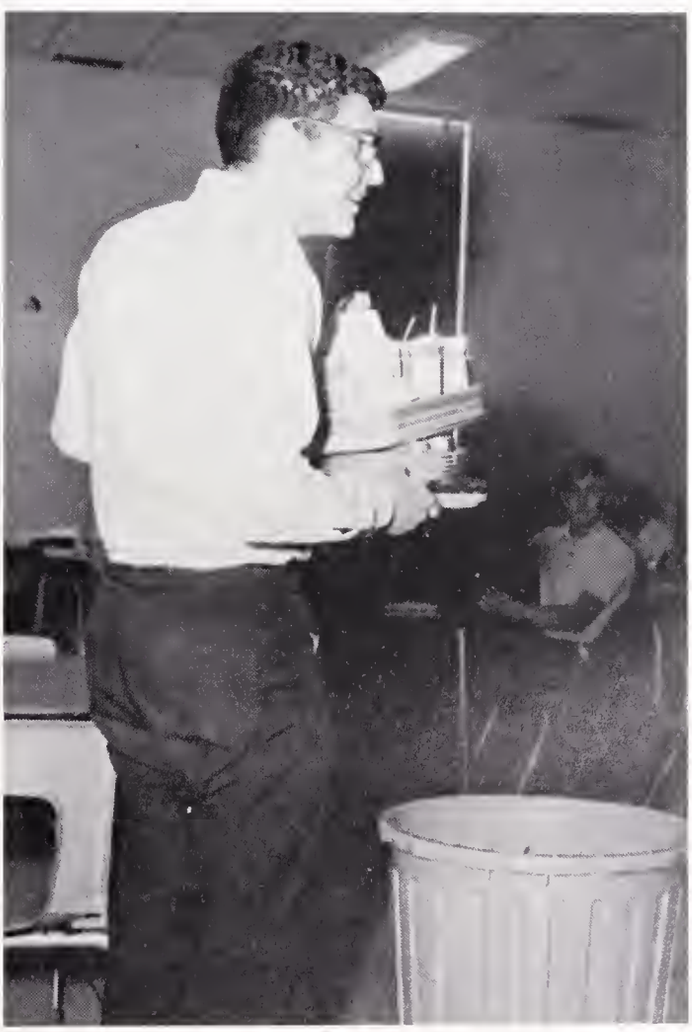
On winter evenings, cheers of "roll tribe, roll!" and "I got that feelin'!" resounded through West Mecklenburg's gymnasium as spirited Indians turned out to support their basketball team. Interest in wrestling increased as the grapplers won matches against rival teams.

To augment the excitement of the winter season, a Christmas dance was sponsored by the Student Council and a new Miss Tomahawk crowned.

A new exchange student, Gabriela Moreno, arrived from Chile on January 4, 1969. CESP committee members welcomed her at the bus station and later a party was given in her honor.

Grappler Paul Kitchens, wrestling in the 165 pound weight division, attempts to break down his Harding opponent.

The unfortunate loser of the daily contest among students, Steve Underwood carries the many trays to be cleaned.



Graduation, Elections Ready Students for Coming Year

As Mr. Charles Pearson calls their names, graduating seniors come forward to receive their long-awaited diplomas.

Amid the exictement of Student Council elections, Donna Crisp and Dorma Washam wait backstage before their skits.

As spring brought rebirth and awakening to the world, it also began the preparation for a new school year. Student Council elections ereated the new offieers of student government for the coming year. For many students, graduation signified the end of a final year in high school and the beginning of a new eareer. Promotion to the next grade generated the exeitement and anticipation of a new year for underelassmen.

Other spring aetivities provided a host of memorable events. To deserving students, Senior Awards Day brought recognition of aeademie success and serviee to the school. The annual Barbecue Day and the presentation of Harvey broke the monotony of the daily routine. The excitement of athletie competition and the friendly rivalry between schools augmented the fun and enjoyment of sports. Aeeenting the list of activities, the Junior-Senior Prom signified the end of the school year and the anticipation of summer.

During the spring barbecue, Joyce Hamm and Charles Bridges ready take-out orders and sell drinks to customers.

Variation in Summer Activities Grants Memorable Occasions

An unending chain of events characterized the summer of 1968. Members of the business staff began fulfilling their responsibilities early in the summer with the selling of advertisements to local businesses. Advertisement plays a vital role in the publication of the Tomahawk.

For some students, travel was the highlight of the summer season. Several attended out-of-town conferences such as Boys' and Girls' State and Wild Acres. Others had the opportunity to travel abroad and tour the major European countries. The community offered a variety of activities to those students who did not travel quite so extensively. Swimming, baseball, and other activities occupied some students while part-time jobs employed others. A summer week-end would not be complete without a visit to Shoney's.

The arrival of our newest tribe member, foreign exchange student Maria Armendariz from Argentina announced the end of summer and the commencement of another school year.

Staff members K. Crocker and V. Hatley talk to Mrs. J. Allison about placing an advertisement in the Tomahawk.

Fulfilling duties of the business staff, Lucia Tompkins and Teresa Moore distribute receipts for the annual.

Tribe Gets Exchange Student from Mendoza, Argentina

Arriving the first of August at Douglas Municipal Airport was Maria del Carmen Armendariz. Upon her arrival, the Sloans, her American family, prepared for their new daughter. The C.E.S.P. committee held a welcoming party to introduce Maria to the West tribe.

During the year Maria supported the extracurricular activities of the school. She was a member of the French and Spanish clubs, the Bow and Arrow Staff, the Executive Board, and Student Council. Maria's hobbies included horseback riding, walking, listening to records, and drawing. On September 25 she celebrated her seventeenth birthday with a party in the cafeteria.

After a year's visit in the United States, Maria returned to her home in Mendoza, Argentina where she continued her education.

Taking her school work seriously, Maria Armendariz, foreign exchange student, does her studying in her bedroom.

Vicky Hatley, Viola Black, and Roberta Killian help Maria Armendariz celebrate her first "American" birthday.

Before their evening meal, Maria and her host family listen to Mr. Sloan while he reads the daily devotional.

Being chosen by the faculty as recipient of the D.A.R. award, Nancy Easterling receives her pin from Mrs. Foster.

As chairman of the Junior-Senior Committee, G. Lane, Junior Best Citizen, presides over a meeting after school.

Throughout the year Indians wished to recognize other members of the tribe for their leadership and service. Gary Lane and Debbie Cashion were selected as Junior and Sophomore Class Best Citizens respectively.

From the Senior Class, Mike Bass received the civitan award. It was given to the most deserving student who showed leadership, interest, and school spirit for the past three years. Qualifying for the D.A.R. award, Nancy Easterling showed leadership in community affairs as well as school activities.

Leaving for Greensboro, Girls' State Delegates Roberta Killian and Debbie Thompson load their luggage in the car.

Delegates Travel, Coaches Accept Honorary Trophies

Gabriela Moreno with sister, Doris Ivester, plans her class schedule with Mrs. Brown, guidance counselor.

At different times during the year students and faculty received honors. Last summer, Girls' State Delegates traveled to Greensboro, while Wildacres Delegates went to Little Switzerland.

Indians were proud to be hosts to two foreign exchange students during the year. Spending a year with the Tribe, Maria Armendariz arrived in August. Gabriela Moreno arrived in January to spend three months as an Indian.

When the football season came to an end, it proved to be one of the best for the school. Football players were proud of themselves, but most of all, the coaches. In appreciation for their service to the team, players awarded coaches with trophies.

Expressing the appreciation of the football team, captain Robert Latour presents coach Clyde Peek with a trophy.

With mixed emotions, J. Rogers accepted the crown for 1969 Homecoming Queen from the reigning queen, A. Armstrong.

Numerous activities headed the list of events for Homecoming 1968-69. Sponsored by the social committee was a dance held on October 31, which carried the theme of "Sock it to the Sabres." The Poor Souls furnished musical entertainment.

Also scheduled that week was Tacky Indian Day on November 1. Any student or faculty member, wishing to wear tacky dress, purchased a badge for seventy-five cents. To end this day, the school spirit committee presented a pep rally. Admission to the rally was a booster tag.

Highlighting the week was the homecoming game against the Sabres. Half-time included the presentation of sponsors and court, and the announcement of the homecoming queen. The game ended with an Indian victory over South.

At the homecoming dance, members of the Social Committee do a take-off from the television program "Laugh-in."

The homecoming court – Roberta Killian, Nancy Easterling, Queen Judy Rogers, Elicia Lowe, and Cathy Raborn – pause in tribute as the band presents a stirring half-time performance and a salute to the new queen.

Sponsoring senior football players were Chris Edwards, Gloria Gamble, Carol Welfare, Linda Freeman, Debbie Robertson, Debra Gayle, Robbie Wylie, Lou Ann Bizzell, Chris Horkey, Sandra Falls, Brenda Jones, Linda Crowder, Vickie Hatley, Sandy Hudson, Kathy Goss, Kathy Newnam, Donna Crisps, Vickie Satterfield, Peggy Goodson, Lucy Brown, Kathy Hagler, Marlise Bizzell, Marsha Watkins, and Pam McMillam.

Ritchie Elected to Serve As Sophomore Class President

Entering West with the desire to increase knowledge and friendships, the newcomers looked to their high school days with much anticipation. After receiving schedules near the end of the summer, sophomores were ready to face the new challenge of the first day of school. To help sophomores find classes, the Student Council and upperclassmen put posters at various places in the school showing room locations. Sophomore homeroom teachers took their students on a guided tour to make class finding easier.

Adjusting to a new schedule was difficult for the sophomores at first. Among their courses were English II, world history, physical education, driver education and electives. Differiential Aptitude Tests and Stanford Achievement Tests were taken early in the year to help students prepare for suitable careers.

Five sophomore girls served as cheerleaders for the junior varsity. These vivacious girls added pep to the J.V. games and gave the teams needed support. Other sophomores contributed to the spirit of West by participating in extracurricular activities such as sports, clubs, committees and classes. In the fall, class officers were elected to lead the class and officiate at the class meeting in the spring.

At the end of the year, sophomores looked back on a year full of achievement and excitement. West had accomplished its goal for sophomores – to prepare them to serve the school with honor and knowledge. They had finally gained the sense of belonging they were seeking.

Leaving the Mint Museum are students from Miss Cash's SAT English class who have viewed paintings by Joseph Rush.

Making important announcements, Mrs. Felker, Administrative Assistant, renders a helpful service to the school.

Efficiently Guide Students in Planning a Worthwhile Future

Heading the faculty and students, Mr. Wright expressed genuine concern for the welfare of West. He took an active interest in school activities, and by his tireless efforts to improve student-faculty relations he placed himself in high esteem. His keen insight into problems of education aided him in guiding West students.

Assistant Principal Mrs. Foster and Administrative Assistant Mrs. Felker aided the school by handling absentee excuses, making announcements pertaining to school activities, and enforcing school rules. Being in close contact with the student body, they were highly respected by both students and faculty.

Offering helpful assistance to students and faculty, the secretaries rendered an invaluable service to the school. Mrs. Boone, Mrs. Kretschmer, and Mrs. Keistler, office secretaries, managed school records. Mrs. McKeon served as guidance secretary. Among her other duties, she compiled transcripts for college-bound students. Library secretary Mrs. McCausland assisted the librarian in preparing books for students' use.

In addition to instructing students in various subjects, members of the faculty also supervised social events and advised school clubs. They boosted school spirit by their support of school athletics and activities.

By Actively Striving to Maintain Well-Being of Students,

Rendering assistance to Colleen Emory, school nurse Mrs. Pearl Maxwell plays an essential role in school life.

Cafeteria staff members, managed by Mrs. Scott, strived diligently to prepare nourishing meals for students and faculty. Mrs. Scott supervised the preparation of food and planned the daily menus. A variety of delicious foods greeted students daily.

During the year, the services of the maintenance staff were apparent around the school. Superivsed by Mr. Stillwell, maintenance personnel worked efficiently in maintaining clean and attractive conditions throughout the buildings and grounds.

On her weekly visits to the school, Mrs. Pearl Maxwell, school nurse, treated minor injuries and illnesses. Offering helpful advice concerning health problems, Mrs. Maxwell performed a valuable service for West.

Mrs. Scott, cafeteria manager, performs an important task in the preparation of food for students and teachers.

Through Work in Local Hospitals, Club Aides Community

Although a very small club, the members of the Health Careers Club sought ways to serve the community and school. They decided they could best serve through working in local hospitals as candy stripers. These dedicated clubbists visited a rehabilitation center to gain some insight into some health careers as future occupations.

Eddie Brooks carefully arranges pamphlets in stand while performing his duty of keeping the health room neat.

Tilly Petty examines the contents of a medicine bottle before making her rounds as a candy striper in a local hospital.

Camera Club Aids Indian Communications with Directory

Working after school, Pat Beaty and Jane Motter, two officers of the Camera Club, assemble Student Directories.

Meeting once a month, the Camera Club informed genuinely interested students of the techniques and fundamentals of photography. Guest speakers, such as Jimmy Lockman, Tomahawk photographer, and an Observer photographer, created an even greater interest in photography as a hobby. Through assembling and selling the Student Directory, members of the club attempted to diminish school expenses by purchasing equipment for the dark room.

S. Randall, having mastered the camera structure, explains the parts and operation to camera club member, R. Heffner.

Campus Life Club Members Gain Inspiration, Have Fun

Campus Life, a very inspiring club, endeavored to make the students aware of things needed to make them well-rounded adults. Studying the mental, spiritual, social, and physical properties of life, the clubbists learned of the Balanced Life. The only qualification for membership was being a Christian.

Besides the weekly club meeting, an area-wide Campus Action Time was held in the Johnston Memorial YMCA.

During the weekly Campus Life club meeting, members brave the rain as they enjoy a game of "Volkswagen Pack."

Club Celebrates Halloween In Local Childrens' Ward

During the course of the year, clubs did many things for the betterment of the school. In this respect the Bible Club was no different. Clubbists, during the Halloween holidays, went to a local hospital to visit a children's ward to help make their days in the hospital a bit happier. Not only did they give a party, but they also dressed in costumes for the children's amusement. Membership was open to anybody who wanted to serve his fellow man. Also, the club colaborated with the chaplains during Christmas in the making and distributing of food baskets.

Amateur Artists Sponsor Sidewalk Art Show in Spring

The Art Club informed interested students of the opportunities in the field of art. Meeting twice a month, the members discussed various art eras and viewed slides. Enjoying the beauty of various art forms, the club made visits to the Mint Museum and college art departments. In the spring the amateur artists held their annual sidewalk sale, displaying the art work of all interested students. The members, also, joined with art clubs from other schools in painting the fence around an unsightly construction area on Fourth Street.

Fine Arts Club Creates Interest in Music, Art, Drama

Debi Kenley and Lynn Moore prepare to read a passage by Robert Browning during a meeting of the Fine Arts Club.

Enhancing students appreciation of music, art, and drama was a purpose of the Fine Arts Club. These clubbists were drawn together by their mutual interest in the Arts. During their monthly meetings, clubbists augmented their knowledge of newest innovations in literature, music, and drama through performing skits, reading poetry, or playing music. Since the only qualification for membership was a desire to explore the arts, many students were eligible for the membership. Although the club did not choose goals that were very evident in serving the school or the community, the clubbists performed a service through their enlightening of the students in the area of art thus evidently causing community enrichment through the fine arts.

Latin Club Members Don Togas for February Banquet

To learn more of the ancient Roman civilization, many Latin students participated in the Latin Club. Larry Bostian showed slides of Rome, Italy, and the ancient roads and ruins. Maria Armendariz, a fifth year Latin student, greatly contributed to the club's knowledge of our Roman heritage by presenting special programs. The most entertaining of all activities was the cena Latina at which all Latin Classes presented a skit while members ate and dressed as the Romans once did.

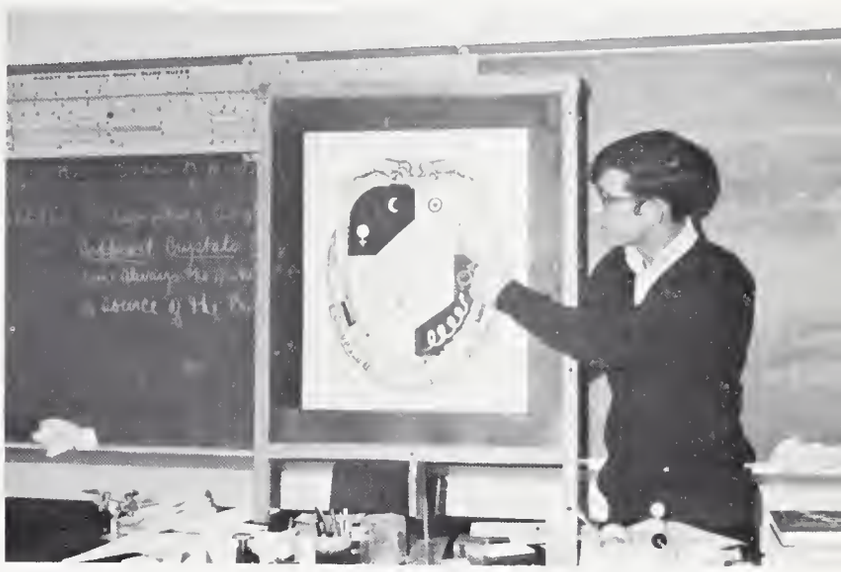
Science Club Initiates Interest in March Science Fair

Science Club member Marie Floyd makes final calculations on her project for the Science Fair held in late March.



Science Club president Larry Bostian explains the meaning of each symbol on the club seal.

Broadening their interests in the field of science, members of the science club gained knowledge through participation in group projects. Field trips to Allen Steam Plant and Cowans Ford Dam helped students to understand the mechanics of electricity. Films concerning the organs and systems of the body and their functions and the effects of smoking on the body informed members further. Sponsoring their major project in the spring, the Science Fair was held in March.

Chaplains Make Food Baskets for Needy at Christmas

Glen Deese and Dean Dellinger carry a food basket into the gym as a finale for the musical program at Christmas.

Serving West for the second year, the homeroom chaplains gave devotions over the intercom system each morning to start the day with a few inspiring thoughts. Meeting irregularly and for special occasions, the chaplains undertook many small projects, often colaborating with the Bible Club.

At Christmas the chaplains co-sponsored a food drive for needy families and institutions. Under the chaplains direction each homeroom decorated and filled a box containing food which was presented during a student assembly.

Penni McCall, fulfilling position as homeroom chaplain, attempts to inspire students through offering morning devotion.

Dionysus' Disciples Stage Plays for Educational TV

Dramatists D. Mullen, L. McDonald, and M. Tadlock portray the final dramatic scenes in Arsenic and Old Lace.

Drama teacher Mr. Mehaffey skillfully applies Facelia Seay's make up before a presentation of Arsenic and Old Lace.

Broadening their knowledge of dramatics, members of the Dionysus' Disciples expanded their interests to include all types of theatrical literature. While giving members practical experience in acting, the group produced several plays. Two major productions, Arsenic and Old Lace and Beyond the Horizon, provided entertainment for the students and the community. Drama club members also participated in the Festival in the Park and taped Everyman to be presented on educational television. Climaxing an exciting year, outstanding dramatists were honored at the annual awards banquet.

Varsity Football Team Ends Season With 7-2-1 Record

Sparked by enthusiastic play, the Indians finished the season with the best record ever for a West football team. These victories did not come easily with several being called upsets. Coach Clyde Peek was especially happy with the 21–20 victory over a strong South team.

Tenacious lineman Doug Starnes, and elusive halfback Paul Millner were named to the All-Mecklenburg County football team. Varsity coaches selected outstanding players from the games, and the winners received beautiful trophies. Recipients in the game against Hunter Huss included Carl McCullough, Doug Starnes, Keith Beatty, and David McGee. Outstanding players of the North game were Jimmy Blair, Mike Fox, Randy Walker, and Baron Beckham.

In the opening game of the season, the Tribe defeated Harding for the second straight year. Vicious defense sparked West to the 18–0 victory. Baron Beckham threw two scoring passes of 78 and 32 yards and ran the other touchdown. With West trailing East 14–13 late in the fourth quarter, Billy Faile intercepted an Eagle pass on the West one yard line and returned it to the fourteen. A 51 yard pass to Randy Walker set up the winning score by David McGee.

Behind the strong blocking of guards Jack Watson and Steve Hinson, West rallied past Hunter Huss 26–7. Tackle Doug Starnes caught a six yard pass on a tackle elligible play for the final touchdown.

Seniors Mike James and Randy Walker pause for a brief drink of water before they return to action against Harding.

Agile halfback Paul Millner eludes South's defensive end as tackle Doug Starnes runs downfield to block.

Paul Millner is pulled out of bounds by a Harding defender after sweeping around right end for hard-earned yardage.

Defensive back Billy Faile puts on a burst of speed to tackle Hickory's fullback with Mike Plummer coming to assist him.

SCOREBOARD

West	18	Harding 0
West	13	Hickory 13
West	20	East 14
West	0	Ashley 25
West	26	Hunter Huss 7
West	13	North 20
West	28	Second Ward 19
West	22	Olympic 12
West	21	South 20
West	21	Myers Park 14

Quarterback Mark McDaniel executes a crushing block as he leads interference for right halfback James Davis.

Ecstacy breaks out at Memorial Stadium after fullback David McGee scores the winning touchdown against East. The touchdown climaxes an 86-yard drive and hands the Indians a 20–14 victory.

Junior Varsity Ends Season with Win Against Sabres

Arthur Blue shows varsity skills as he skirts around right end and heads downfield with a defender on his back.

Utilizing a strong defense, the junior varsity football team compiled a record of three wins against three losses and three ties. The tough defense enabled the Tribe to win the three games.

The first game of the season was a 6-6 hard fought deadlock against the Mustangs of Myers Park. Scoreless ties resulted in the games against the Harding Rams and the North Rebels. A 13-7 defeat of the South Mecklenburg Sabres proved to be the most thrilling win of the season. Other victories were against the East Eagles, 21-7 and the Huskies of Hunter Huss, 26-0.

Captain Bruce Ruthledge led the team on both offense and defense. Alternate captains Eddie Sadler and James Zeigler also played outstanding ball.

Harriers Mark Good Season, Finish Seventh in State

Indian harriers show their winning ability that gave them their first win of the season at West Charlotte High.

Built around extremely dedicated runners, the cross country team was one of the best ever to run at West. Only two teams consistently finished ahead of them – Myers Park, the state champs and South, which finished third in the state tournament.

Competing in their first meet of the season, the Indians finished first with 37 points. In the next two meets, the harriers finished second behind Myers Park, and later behind South. The tribe scored 39 points and placed first in a five team meet at West Charlotte. Concluding their regular season, the Indians finished in first place scoring 42 points. Following the regular season, the Indians finished fourth in the 4-A Conference tournament. The Indians then finished third in the Western Sectional meet.

Steve Moore continued to be the number one runner for the second straight year. Another outstanding runner was Johnny Leatherman who showed marked improvement.

Two West Charlotte runners challenge seniors Terry Taylor and Steve Moore during West's first cross country meet.

Three West Indians set the pace as they top the final hill ahead of the second place Trojans in a cross country meet.

Cheerleaders Demonstrate Sportsmanship During Games

In the spring each girl who wanted to become a cheerleader had to be approved by the faculty and fellow students. Each candidate was checked for their scholastic ability, school spirit, and character. Each of the candidates had to perform before the student body as an individual, in a group of three, and in a group of six. Nine were chosen by the students to become cheerleaders with Elicia Lowe chosen as head cheerleader.

Under the supervision of Miss Phillips, the cheerleaders learned the fundamentals of good cheering. Each cheerleader was responsible for being at all football and basketball games to lead the cheering and show good sportsmanship. Through the cheerleader's efforts, the students attending athletic events were able to grasp a deeper feeling of school spirit.

During halftime, varsity cheerleaders move out to the center of the court to keep the Indians' spirit ridin' high.

Cheerleading requires good timing and agility which is demonstrated by sophomore cheerleader Debbie Robertson.

Varsity: Debbie Gibson, Roberta Killian, Carolyn Beck, Robbie Wylie, Elicia Lowe, Nancy Easterling, Elaine Ross, Chris Edwards, Cathy Goss.

Junior varisty: Lou Ann Bizzell, Joan Brookshire, Debbie Robertson, Suzanne Price, Debbie Cashion.

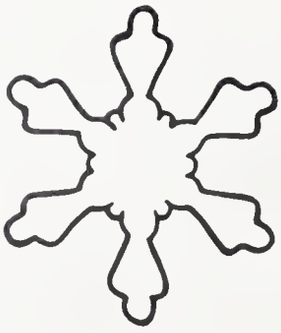
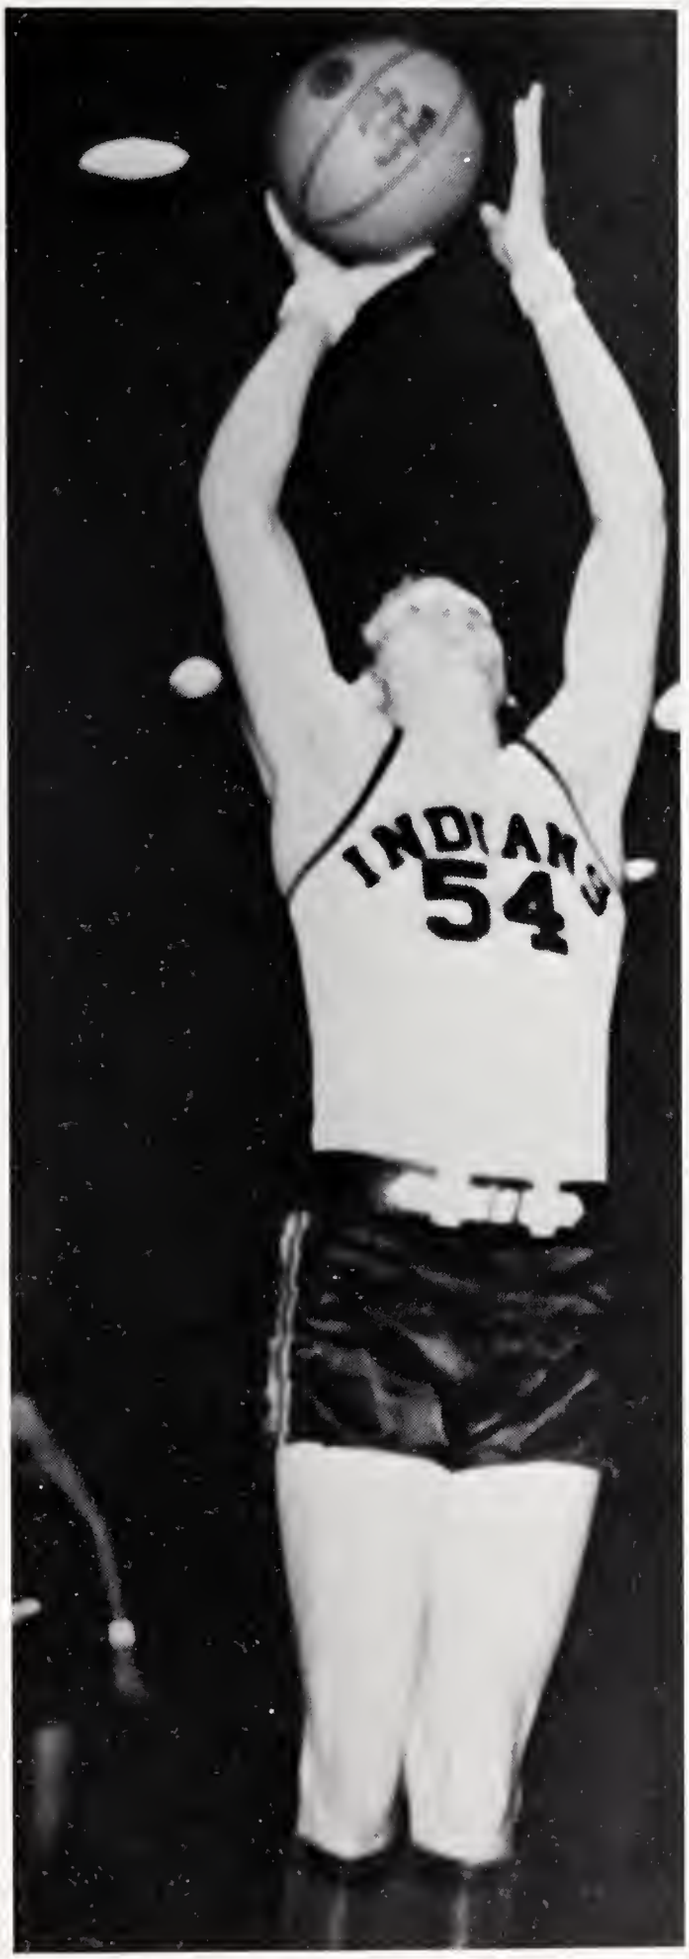
Cheerleaders Debbie Robertson, Lou Ann Bizzell, and Debbie Cashion help promote school spirit during halftime.

Before the game against Huss, the varsity cheerleaders get the West supporters cheering by spelling I-N-D-I-A-N-S.





Winter

Along with other members, Viola Black helps clean the Student Council room as part of winter activities.

Unaware that winter would arrive so soon, students make their way to class enjoying the early November snow.

Students' Activities Verify Presence of Winter Season

Creating the yuletide spirit, a large tree, decorated in maroon and white, towers over students in the cafeteria.

During lunch, Jack Watson, dressed as a girl, presents a skit for Student Council to advertise the Christmas dance.

Supporting the basketball team to their fullest, enthusiastic Indian spectators rise to cheer the battle cry, as the Tribe scores a basket against its chief rivals, the Mustangs of Myers Park High School.

True Indian Spirit Exceeds with Coming Winter Months

Senior Dave Faber boosts school spirit at the Harding pep rally by portraying "Mr. Sole-Man," a basketball scout.

Before the Harding-West game, George Beam takes a practice lay up shot as part of warm up drills with the team.

Representing West as Carrousel Princess, radiant Cathy Raborn waves to fellow Indians and eager spectators.

Beginning the festive Christmas season was the annual Carrousel Parade. This year's parade, held on November 28, Thanksgiving Day, proved to be a very special event since parts of it were televised nationwide.

West was proudly represented in the parade by the marching band, the 1968–69 princess Cathy Raborn, the 1967–68 princess Linda Rothwell who reigned as queen of the Carrousel.

Stopping at the square in Charlotte, the band danced the Teaberry Shuffle while thousands of spectators watched. The band displayed true creativity in the preformance they gave while marching for the 1½ miles.

After being crowned Carrousel Queen, Linda Rothwell made her acceptance speech to the audience at the White House Inn.

Princess Cathy Raborn Represents Tribe in Carrousel

Doing a dance routine Debbie Keistler, Sandy Hudson, Lane Abernathy, Sharon Brooks, Donna Crisp, and Janet Gray lead the band for Carolinas' Carrousel Parade which was televised nationally on Thanksgiving Day.

National Honor Society Holds Kidnap Party at Gondola

Excelling in several phases of school life, many students received special recognition for their scholastic accomplishments. Twenty-five juniors and five seniors were inducted into the National Honor Society. These students were evaluated in scholarship, character, leadership, citizenship, and service.

Five students competed for the Morehead Scholarship which is given by the University of North Carolina. Of these five students, Larry Bostian was named a district finalist. Scholastic ability and extracurricular activities were the basis of selection for this scholarship.

Newly elected members, T. King, D. Duncan, J. Blackwelder, await their induction into the National Honor Society.

Fulfilling her duties as president of the Honor Society, Chris Edwards presides over the induction ceremony.

Larry Bostian, district finalist for Morehead Scholarship, pauses in the guidance office to scan college handbooks.

Members of the National Honor Society enjoyed an evening of socializing at the annual kidnap party for inductees.

"Visions of Sugarplums" Turn Special Dreams into Reality

Enjoying the festivities of the annual Christmas dance, couples dance to the music of the Catalinas.

During the intermission at the dance, Joy Bradley and Sandy Hudson are announced as Junior beauties.

Looking at her notes, Mrs. Felker makes the final decision on the first place door decoration in the secular division.

with Beauties, Miss Tomahawk

Students created the Christmas spirit throughout the school during the week prior to the holidays. Activities started with the annual door decoration contest sponsored by the House and Grounds Committee. Three prizes were awarded to homerooms in both secular and religious catagories.

Captivating the festivities of the week was the Christmas dance which was sponsored by the Social Committee. Held December 19, the dance carried the theme "Visions of Sugarplums." Guest enjoyed and danced to music presented by the Catalinas.

Special intermission events highlighted the dance. Class beauties and Miss Tomahawk were presented to students. Both Sophomore and Junior classes selected two representatives, while Seniors chose five. From the five seniors, Jack Knight, a prominent television and radio announcer, chose Miss Tomahawk. His selection was based on the most photogenic girl.

At the Christmas dance, Bill Gupton editor of the annual, crowns senior beauty Roberta Killian as Miss Tomahawk.

N. Easterling, C. Springs, R. Killian, J. Rogers, and C. Raborn anxiously await the announcement of Miss Tomahawk.

Capturing the current sound of popular music, a well known Charlotte band, the Catalinas, furnished musical entertainment for guests at the annual Christmas dance held on December 19 in the cafeteria.

Juniors

Class officers Debbie Durham, secretary, and Donna Crisp, treasurer, record the card sales of junior homerooms.

Juniors Wayne Morris and Rick Osborne take full advantage of P.S.A.T. which is given to juniors in late October.

Beginning the 1968–69 school year, the juniors immediately became involved in a variety of school activities, both scholastic and extracurricular. Impressed with the realization that graduation from high school was in sight, juniors worked diligently to prepare for the future.

Selling Christmas cards to finance the Junior-Senior Prom was the first order of business for the junior class. Under the direction of Mr. Schrum, sales began in the early fall and ended several weeks before Christmas. Election of Class Best Citizen and Junior Class Beauties highlighted the juniors' fall and winter season. After receiving PSAT scores, juniors used the results to guide them in planning the courses to take in their senior year. Through the C.E.S.P., juniors were offered the opportunity to spend the summer abroad. Aided by Mrs. Avery and other junior teachers, the junior class presented the Junior-Senior Prom in the early spring.

For scholastic achievement and leadership ability, several outstanding juniors were tapped into the National Honor Society and the Key Club.

The thrill of being measured for class rings coupled with the prospect of becoming seniors inspired the juniors to look forward to their last year.

Thematic Approach to Literature Begins with New Texts

Portraying characters from the Greek play Pyramus and Thisbe are Terry Poteat, Debbie Barnes, Susan Brisendine.

Portraying Robin Hood and Friar Tuck, Danny McClure and Larry Bostian act in a skit as part of an English project.

With the arrival of new textbooks, English teachers began the thematic approach to literature. This simply means that the various forms of literature were taught by themes rather than in chronological order. All levels of English also covered basic grammar, vocabulary, book reports, and composition.

Using two new literature books, Insights into Literature and Encounters: Themes in Literature, English 10 students read selected short stories, plays, essays, and poems. They supplemented their texts with novels, such as The Odyssey and The Pearl. While covering mythology, some students compiled a booklet concerning wellknown Greek and Roman myths.

American Literature – Themes and Writers, the new eleventh grade text was supplemented by parallel reading, such as Huckleberry Finn, Billy Bud, and Moby Dick. Some classes attended outside plays as special projects, while others presented their own dramatizations of Our Town in class.

English 12 students studied Western literature, Greek mythology, and grammar, with emphasis on communicating ideas on the written page. Additional reading included The Return of the Native, Paradise Lost, and Chaucer's Canterbury Tales.

While studying the social life of the American pioneers, junior English students participate in a quilting bee.

In their tenth grade English class, sophomores Joe Sadler and George Stone present a scene from Julius Caesar.

Belinda Auman, Wade Bennett, and Roy Hibbard examine a mythology notebook in their tenth grade English class.

Presenting the novel the Great Gatsby to their class are Junior English students Elaine Byrum and Mike McClure.

During a study of fables, senior English student Viola Black narrates as Marie Floyd presents a puppet show.

Language Department Adds Two New Levels of Spanish

Kathy Cobb operates the special phones borrowed from Southern Bell as French classmates Rick Osborne and Sandy Hudson converse. By amplifying voices, these phones allow students to hear pronunciation errors.

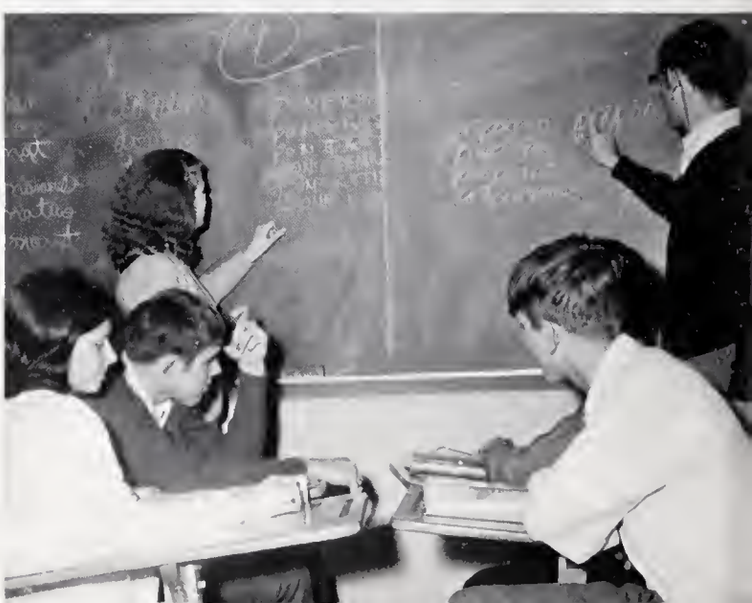
French II students Veatta Sifford and Mary Williams listen attentively through headphones during an oral test.

Using the book Entender y Hablar, first-year Traditional Spanish students were introduced to culture and geography, though emphasis was on understanding and speaking the language. Both the Conversational Spanish II, offered for the first time, and Spanish III classes stressed reading. Grammar and a study of important figures in Spanish history composed the Spanish IV course. Spanish V, also new, consisted of researching and writing reports in Spanish.

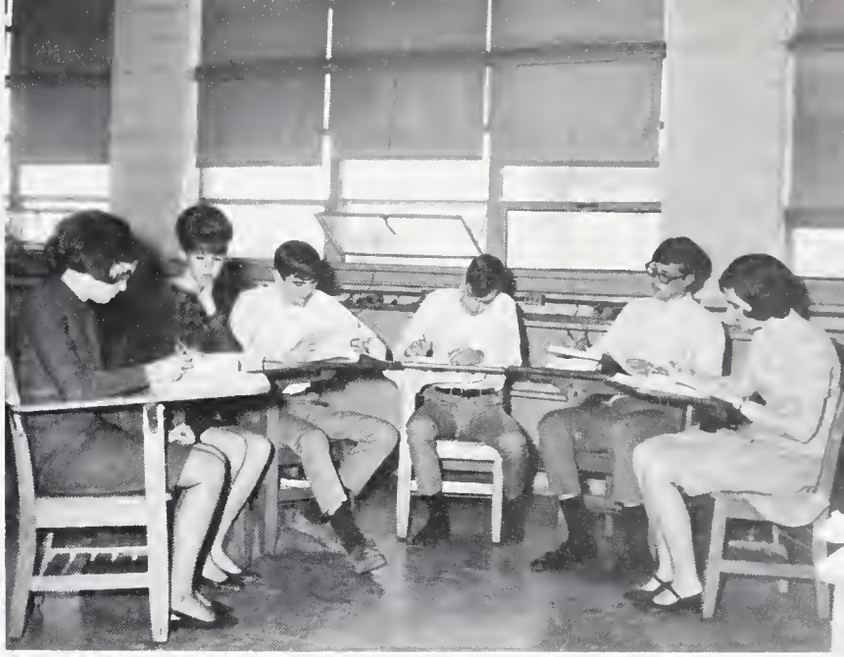
In the Latin I classes basic grammar, customs, and history of Roman civilization were covered. Writing a Latin term paper, studying the works of Cicero and Ovid, and presenting a skit were the major projects of the Latin II students.

French I covered basic grammar and pronunciation. French II classes studied French civilizations and authors and practiced speaking and writing the French language. French III and IV courses included extensive study of grammar, geography, history, and literature.

Sixth-period Latin students watch as classmates Alice Dellinger and Larry Bostian conjugate verbs on the blackboard.



Rita Shipes watches expectantly as Spanish II classmate Kathy Nance tries to break a pinata in Miss Phillips' room.



Using a study period to advantage, Mr. Hartley's Spanish IV class works as a group in their new grammar workbooks.

Looking through their tests, Norva McCall and Penni McCall listen to instructions given over their headphones.

Latin I students Elaine Byrum and Patty Spencer admire a few of the Christmas cards made by Mrs. Holland's Latin classes, including a particularly beautiful one designed by Eddie Brooks and Doug Huffstickler.

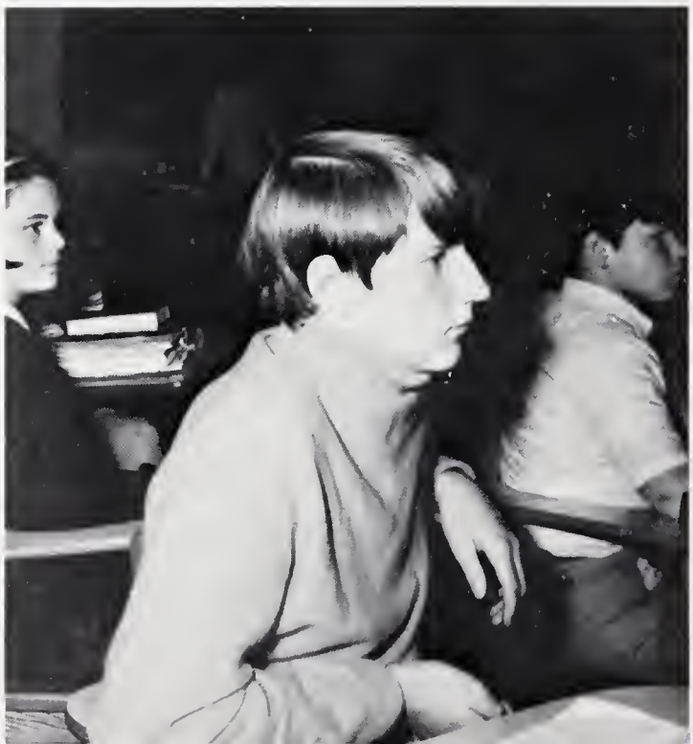
Elections Emphasize Current Events in History Classes

In order to understand current events, world history students Jimmy Newton and Jay Klein study a New York Times.

Libby Spear visually illustrates her world history report on Ancient Greek culture with painting and costume.

While showing slides to a world history class, Brenda Sadler recalls memorable experiences of her trip to Norway.

Sophomores Karen Shirlen, Bobby Beatty, and Mike Digh pay strict attention during their world history class.



Teaching the heritage of man was the primary aim of the Social Studies Department. History students gained a broader knowledge of the past and present by studying world history, American history, and psychology.

World history covered ancient to modern times in the study of man. Using the New York Times Weekly, students correlated present and past events.

American history students studied events from the colonization of America through contemporary times. Current issues, prominent personalities, and the 1968 elections were followed closely.

Learning to cope with everyday problems, psychology students used experiments dealing with learning and behavior patterns. Highlighting the year, was a trip to Broughton Memorial Hospital in Morganton, North Carolina.

Learning about their heritage, American history students Peg Allred and Pam Beaty listen as Clyde Peek lectures.

As the psychology class leaves for Morganton, M. White and T. Russell assist C. Bailey in boarding the bus.

American History students Debbie Cline, Debbie Duncan, Norva McCall design a bulletin board about the Civil War.

As part of a classroom experiment, psychology teacher Mr. Murray administers an I.Q. test to Robbie Heffner.

Scientists Explore Wonders of Energy, Matter, Nature

J. K. Caldwell and Len Abercrombie industriously remove vines from the nature trail made by the Biology II class.

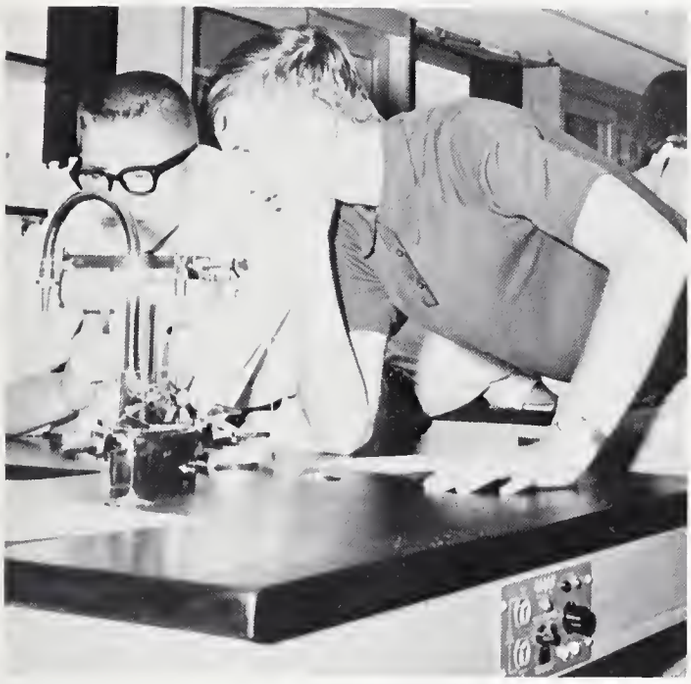
Allen Arthur, Bethany Gulledge, Mr. Kessler, and Andy Bolynn perform a senior science distillation experiment.

Searching to broaden their scientific knowledge, sophomore biology students studied the complex systems of plants and animals. With the aid of microscopes, they were able to view even the tiniest, most primitive forms of life. Biology II students, having already developed an interest in this field, furthered their knowledge through advanced dissection, as well as nature trails and other projects.

Taking advantage of laboratory facilities, Chemistry I students delved into the mysteries of matter, energy, the elements, and chemical bonds. They also learned to use slide rules in solving mathematical problems. Field trips, including one to Furman University, augmented the Chemistry II course, designed to give students a better understanding of the structure of matter.

Auxiliary aids, such as filmstrips, supplemented textbook material in helping physics students to comprehend the laws and properties of matter. Among other material covered in the course were mechanics, dynamics, magnetism, and heat, sound, and light waves.

Tim Mashburn conducts an experiment in Chemistry II using the balance scales and a weight suspended on a string.



Harry Hilewitz and Jimmy Burgin study the balance to obtain the correct reading in an experiment in Chemistry I.

Chemistry I student, Rick Swain, practices using the slide rule in order to work equations more efficiently.

By presenting a diagram to other Biology I students, Jennie Mozeley helps them understand the balance of nature.

Joe Hollingsworth and Billy Faile, physics students, undertake an experiment to test for displacement of volume.

As part of a study of viruses, Mark Tadlock and Tony Mathis prepare to cultivate mold during Biology I class.

Analysis Course Broadens Math Department Curriculum

Equations, inequalities, real numbers, and factoring were major components of the Algebra I course. Algebra II involved a closer study of material covered in first-year algebra and a brief introduction to truth tables and the workings of a computer. Main topics in analysis, which replaced Algebra III and Trigonometry, were limits, vectors, functions, and mathematical induction. Included in the geometry course was the study of planes, angles, and lines.

Business math and senior math provided learning opportunities for students to apply the principles of mathematics in business and everyday life. Students developed their knowledge of stock and bond transactions, payrolls, and other related topics.

Using extra time advantageously, Sheila Freeman concentrates on working a percentage problem during business math.

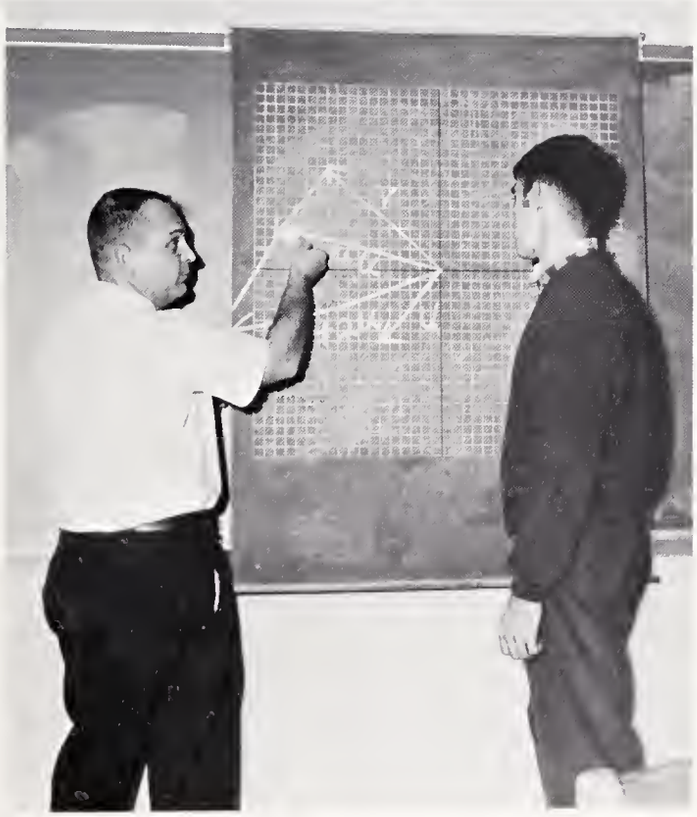
Mr. Boone lectures to Algebra I students on inequalities which composed a major part of the Algebra I course.

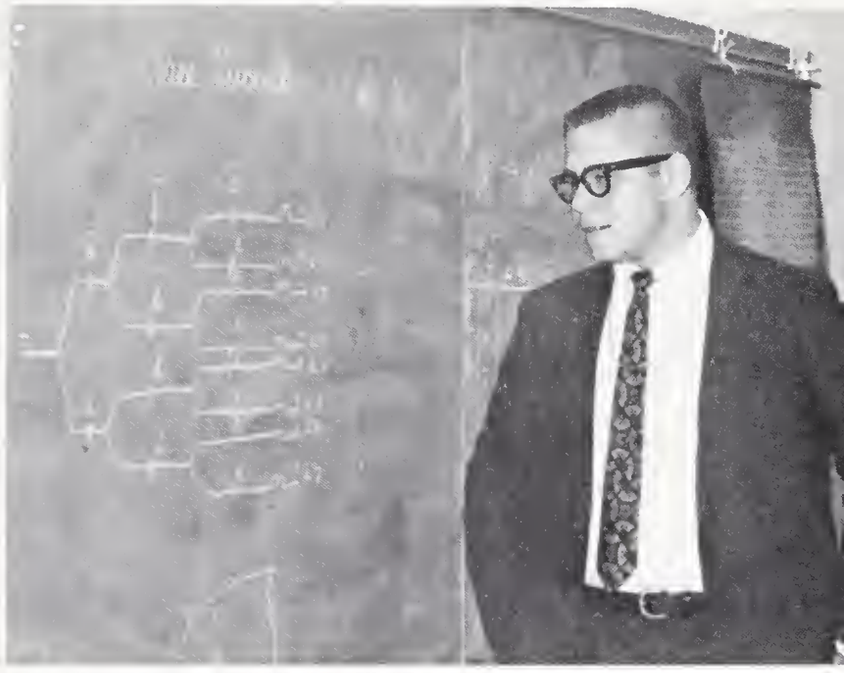
Expounding the fundamental ideas of geometric theorems, Miss Dunlap aptly instructs one of her geometry classes.

Assisting functions students in the math department is Mr. Carroll, a student teacher from Mars Hill College.

Assuming a favorite position, Mr. Schrum makes a point during a lecture on vectors in one of his analysis classes.

Mr. Schrum employs a graph to illustrate the principles of vector addition for analysis student Roy Daniels.





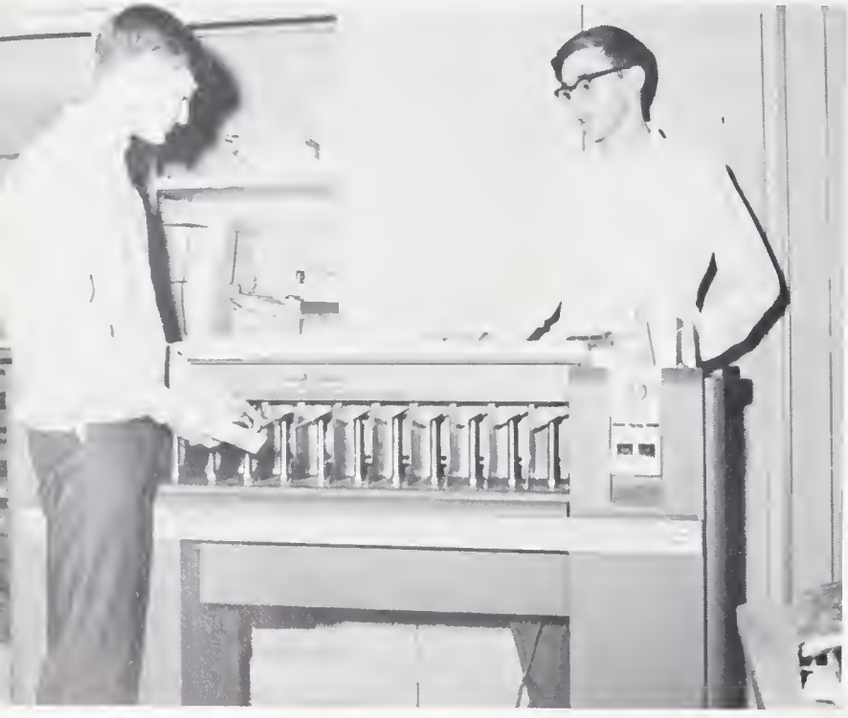
Harry Hilewitz, Algebra II student, studies a True Circuit in order to understand the workings of a computer.

With Miss Moody's assistance Sandra Long learns to set up bank deposit slips during her business math class.

Business Students Learn Competence, Speed, Accuracy in

Using adding machines, Donna Biggers, Sharon Hunter, and Marsha Bumgardner rush to complete a bookkeeping assignment.

Collecting data cards from the card sorter, students Mike Moseley and Terry Taylor prepare to use the computer.



Juniors Brenda Mullis, Cathy Luckey, and Kathy Vincent concentrate on increasing their typing speed and accuracy.

To teach the art of applying make-up was the aim of a business class demonstration in which K. Crocker took part.

Skills Necessary for Becoming Capable Future Employees

Five Courses – bookkeeping, shorthand, typing, general office practice, and keypunch – composed the business curriculum. Bookkeeping students learned to keep accurate business and individual records. Guest speakers, special student projects, and practice sets of books supplemented the bookkeeping course. Shorthand I and II classes studied the principles and theory of shorthand and, using special equipment, dictation and transcription. Having learned basic typing skills in Typing I, second-year students developed skill in typing business letters, tables, and reports. Members of general office practice classes learned to operate various office machines, to file, and to work with payrolls and taxes. One semester of keypunch and one semester of office machines composed the keypunch course.

Utilizing dictaphones, Susan Gallard and Sybil Elliot strive to perfect their shorthand skills through practice.

Sandra Snipes and Lynn Seagle check data cards against their program to be sure that they have made no mistakes.

During their general office practice class Kaye Carmichael, Renee Prim, and Susan Austin operate adding machines.

Watching for possible errors, M. E. Bowman waits to collect data cards as L. Mozeley operates a keypunch machine.

Distributive Education Includes Unit of Data Processing

Students in the vocations classes increased their knowledge of various careers in which they were interested. Auto-body classes learned the skills involved in keeping a car in good running order by actually overhauling automobile engines and making other repairs. Three work programs, C.O.O., I.C.T., and D.E., provided opportunties for on-the-job experience to supplement classroom study.

Co-operative Office students studied business organization and procedures. Obtaining and holding a job and consumer economics were main points of the Industrial Co-operative Training course. Distibutive Education classes covered economics of distribution, merchandising, and a unit on data processing.

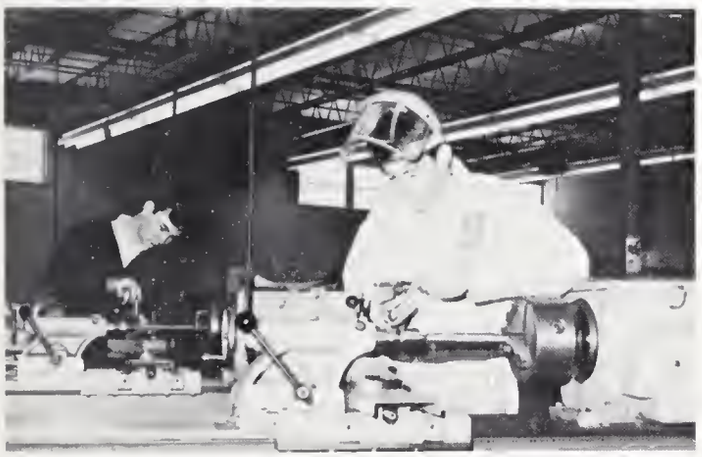
C.O.O. stenographic student Sandra Stikeleather receives a correspondence folder from her supervisor, Mr. Sheline.

Distributive Education student Larry Gilbert arranges furs for a window display in Belk's Fur Storage Department.

Working at First Union National Bank, D.E. student Cindy Hudson files plates used in addressing correspondence.

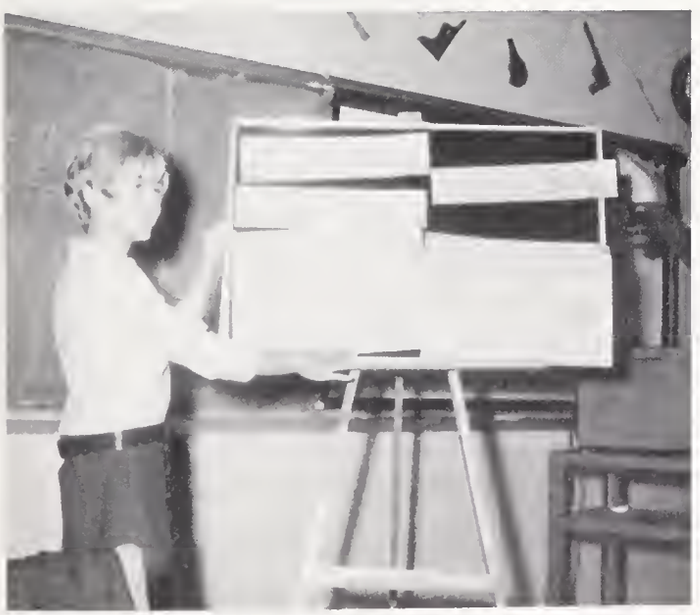
During auto-body class Steve Hinson hammers out dents in a Volkswagon fender, while Harold Braddy welds underneath.

C.O.O. student Ken Cavin answers telephone requests for bus schedules and fares at Continental Trailways.



While working in their machine shop class, Gary Gillespie and Steve Campbell learn skills necessary to operate a lathe.

Sophomore Robbie Allen uses signs to supplement a report on insurance premiums to her sixth-period vocations class.



Senior Norma Hammond scans a textbook concerning cosmetology during her I.C.T. class.

Working at Winn Dixie under the Distributive Education program, Judy Hill carries out her duties as cashier.

Splitting First Year Activities Between Physical Education

In the fall sophomores took time from their study halls and gym activities to begin Driver Education classes. For six weeks they engaged in classroom study of the North Carolina traffic laws and highway safety. Later in the year, students had a minimum of six hours of practical behind-the-wheel experience.

Taking advantage of three new tennis courts, the girls' physical education classes revived this lively sport after a lapse of three years. Fall and winter activities included field hockey, also resumed; tumbling; gymnastics; floor exercises; volleyball, and basketball. Spring brought more outdoor activities such as track and field, softball, archery, and, when bad weather prevailed, table tennis, badminton, shuffleboard, and folk dance.

While sophomore classmates were in the Driver Education classes, the boys' physical education classes played horseshoes. The boys also developed co-ordination through football, crab soccer, volleyball, and basketball. During the spring a choice was offered of golf, softball, or wrestling.

Going up for a jump ball, Tony Coffee and Ben Miller participate in a basketball game during physical education.

Utilizing free time while classmates study driver education, Peggy Goodson perfects her tennis-playing skills.

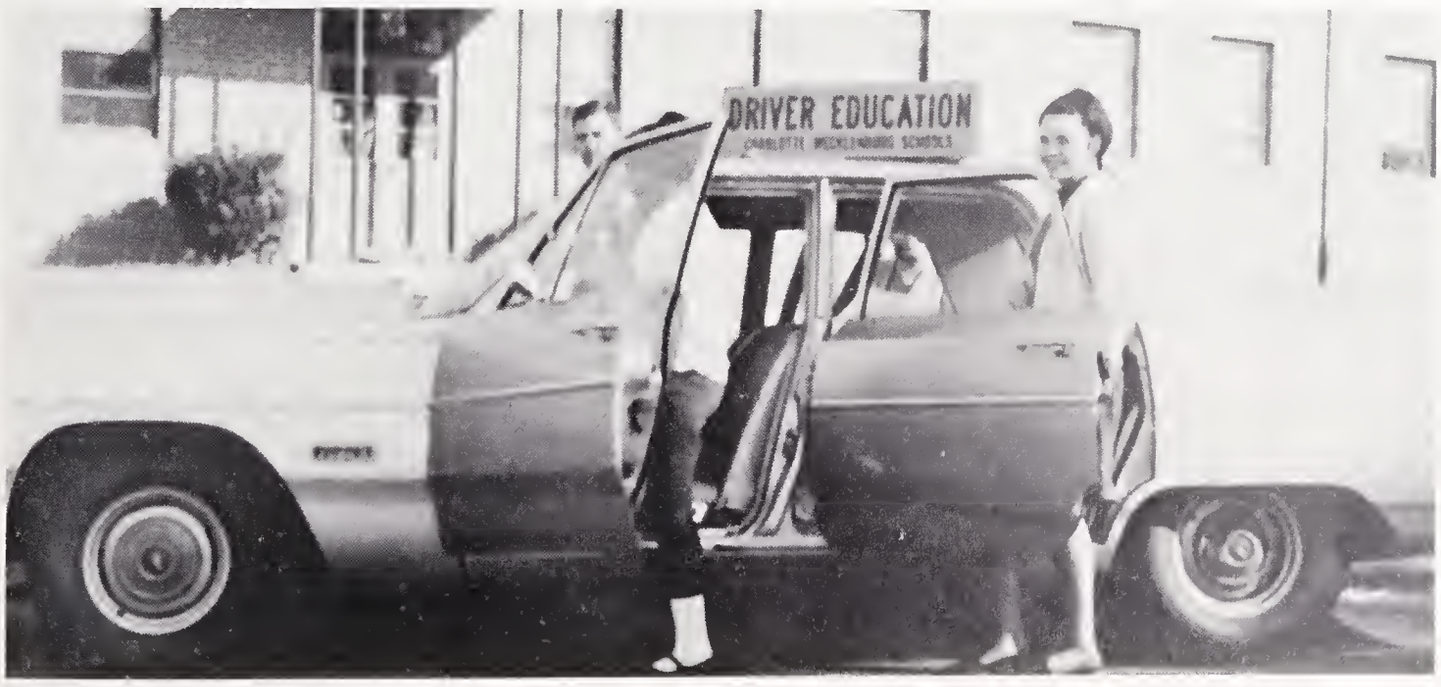
Learning basic basketball skills during girls' physical education class, Emma Jean Bowman practices shooting.

Drivers Education, Sophomores Attain Proficiency in Both

Showing good balance and agility, physical education student Linda Small performs a tumbling routine in her class.

To perfect their skill in driving, sophomores complete their road work with the help of instructor Mr. Jones.

In order to learn correct driving techniques, Gloria Chambers prepares to drive instructed by teacher Eddie McArver as Gayle Honeycutt and Gail Stephens observe from the back seat until it is their turn to drive.



Elective Curriculum Offers Indians Variety of Courses

Roberta Killian and Lucia Tompkins portray characters from Shakespeare's Twelfth Night for comparative literature.

Preparing for a speech to be given in their public speaking class are students Bill Rackley and Linda Crowder.

Electives, an integral part of the curriculum, offered a variety of courses. These courses included comparative literature, reading improvement, public speaking, Bible, and art.

Comparative literature exposed students to the major ideas expressed in literature. The courses covered literary works from man's beginning to his present stage of development. Reading improvement strived to perfect the skills of speed reading, comprehension, vocabulary, and composition. Learning the fundamentals of speaking and debating, public speaking students attended a session in court and journeyed to Chapel Hill for conferences.

Bible I and Bible II classes studied various facets of the Bible and visited a Jewish temple. Aided by a newly required centrifuge and electric sprayer, the art classes created figure drawings, pottery, sculpture, and many other forms of art.

Using his artistic ingenuity, sophomore Daniel Gregory concentrates his efforts on completing an ink drawing.

Student Tommy Osborne acts as model for Bible class while Mrs. Teague dresses him in Israeli costume.

Delivering a speech to his public speaking class, Ronnie Craig employs many of the fundamentals of a good orator.

Making valentines concerning English authors, comparative literature students, M. Hill and J. Watson compare cards.

To increase their knowledge of words and word usage, reading improvement, students participate in Scrabble games.

Taking an active interest in the study of art, Linda Williams creates a painting as part of a class assignment.

Students Enrich Personal Interests Through Electives

Employing new kitchen equipment, Home Economics classes learned to prepare meals and preserve foods. They also studied units on interior decorating, child development, clothing construction, and family relations. Interest in the first semester of Family Living centered on personality development, family health, and the years from dating to marriage. Aspects of married life, including money management, food, and housing, composed the second semester study. Foods and Clothing students chose between tailoring a suit or a coat, some of which were displayed in the cafeteria lobby. Styling was taught briefly, ending with students writing a term paper on "Styles Through the Ages." Emphasis concerning food was on nutrition and meal planning.

Foreign Exchange student, Dolly Leitgeb, who attends Myers Park, tells a Home Economics class about her country.

Foods and Clothing students Corrine O'Shields and Terry Gilbert set up a fashion display in the cafeteria lobby.

Foods and Clothing students, Carol Wood and Diane Hagler, work diligently on curtains for the guidance office.

While other members of the class prepare breakfast, Russell Calomeris scrambles eggs during family living lab.

Randy W. Moore uses his text book to assist in drawing a plan while teacher Mr. Smith considers the drawing.

Horticulture students, with the aid of a new greenhouse and shadehouse, studied the production of fruits and vegetables with special emphasis on ornamental plants.

Leadership, business, production, and mechanics were principles stressed to agriculture students. New acetylene welding equipment further broadened their scope of study.

Basic electricity and electronics provided students with a fundamental background in electron theory, electricity, radio and television operation, and wiring.

Technical drawing students, aided by a new architectural drawing machine, learned techniques of drafting, dimensioning, projection, blueprint reading, and advanced design.

In the new greenhouse, horticulture student Kathy Hood watches as Kathy Gunnells sprinkles the potted geraniums.

In the agriculture building, Mr. Wynn shows Ronnie York, Mike McDaniel, and Rusty Lee how to use an acetylene torch.

John Byrd receives instruction from Mr. Gant about circuit construction in basic electricity and electronics.

Library assistant Rackley carefully inspects the opaque projector before storing it in the audio-visual aids room.

Doug Starnes, library assistant, endeavors to direct J.K. Caldwell in his locating information for a report.

To acquaint the student body with the ever increasing facilities of the library, members of the Library Club worked very diligently. Each member, possessing the only qualification necessary for membership, had an overwhelming interest in the library. These proud clubbists bore the name of the Pages of West Mecklenburg High School. Promoting more and better use of the library, the Pages used many skills learned during their time spent as an assistant. These assistants encouraged the use of vastly augmented audio visual aids equipment.

Serving students daily and on special occasions the bus drivers carefully assumed the responsibility of transporting West students in addition to assisting junior high and elementary schools. Preparing themselves to drive the buses these students engaged in several hours of preparatory classwork, written examinations, and road tests. Each bus driver had certain duties such as keeping monthly records of students transported on his bus route and maintaining a clean bus. One of West's bus drivers was privileged by winning the "Bus Driver of the Year" contest sponsored by WAYS radio.

While trying to complete his monthly bus report, a compilation of mileage and passengers, J. Brown works carefully.

Anxiously anticipating dismissal from school, Charles Bridges awaits the students assigned to ride his bus 226.

Joining West's music department in the fall, Miss Hunt directs the Glee Club during a Veteran's Day assembly.

Under the direction of Miss Hunt, the Glee Club met daily, perfecting musical and vocal techniques. The Mixed Chorus, the Girls' Chorus, and the Advanced Choir presented inspirational and entertaining programs for the school and community. During the November meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, the Glee Club presented a patriotic program in honor of Veteran's Day. The same program was also enjoyed by the students during an assembly.

Singing a variety of religious and novelty numbers, the Glee Club presented their Christmas program to the public on December 15, and to the school on December 18. After the Christmas holidays, the Choir began perfecting their selections for the district choral contest at Oven's Auditorium in March. Selected members also participated in the state-wide Music Festival at Greensboro, visited Mars Hill College in February and sang in the Easter Sunrise Service in Freedom Park.

Mixed Chorus, First Row: Director Hunt, Lindsey, Hudson, secretary-treasurer Cauble, vice president Dellinger, president S. Helton, Ammons, Baker, Hamm. Colorful Performing Groups March in Several Parades

First Row: Frazier, Houston, Mullis, Marks, Jones. Second Row: McCullough, Hallman, director Spainhour, Bryant, Davidson.

During halftime, the band executes drill patterns as they step quickly to the music of the Teaberry Shuffle.

With the football season swinging into action, the band began to produce their wonderful sound. Marching in the Carrousel, Shriners', and Big WAYS Parades and participating in halftime activities of all West football games, the band provided entertainment for their audiences.

Companions to this active band were the Majorettes, Crystalettes, and Lettergirls. Majorettes dazzled their audiences as they performed baton twirling routines while Crystalettes provided the dancing. Lettergirls added to these gala affairs with their pom-pom routines.

Playing a different kind of music, the orchestra supplied entertainment for the students during the year. They played classic selections for the student body during the Christmas program.

First Row: Lettergirls Lackey, Flowers, Keistler, Hudson, Abernathy, Brooks, Crisp, Gray, Wilcox. Second Row: Secretary Young, vice-president Mitchell, president Clark, treasurer Helton, Whicker. Newnam, Bowen, McCall, head Horky, co-head Sadler, Grice, and Hartis served as 1968-69 majorettes.

Majorettes Pam Clark, Kathy Newnam, and Nancy Bowen, add to halftime activities as they perform a fire baton routine.

On a chilly November morning, lettergirls proudly make the traditional two mile march in the Carousel Parade.

The Crystalettes were Hartis, M. White, Glines, Moore, Dunn, Bolick, head Crowder, Hammond, Petty, Bradley, Kenley, and D. White.

All-American Critical Service Bestows First Class Honor

The members of the Bow and Arrow staff worked hard, dedicating themselves towards publishing the monthly issues of the newspaper. The second-year journalism students were well rewarded for their labor by receiving a First Class Honor Rating in the Seventy-ninth All-American Critical Service.

Besides keeping the students informed about school activities and student news, the staff studied and learned journalistic principles through working together and gaining experience. Business management rules were learned through selling advertisements to finance the newspaper.

Maria Armendariz, Paulette Sigmon, and Judy Rogers work diligently on layouts for the upcoming Bow and Arrow.

Michele Hill, co-editor of the Bow and Arrow gasps as she wonders if the paper will be distributed on time.

Ratings upon Newspaper Staffers for Excellent Newspaper

Preparing to distribute the Bow and Arrow to students, Bobby Bailey inserts a scholastic magazine into the paper.

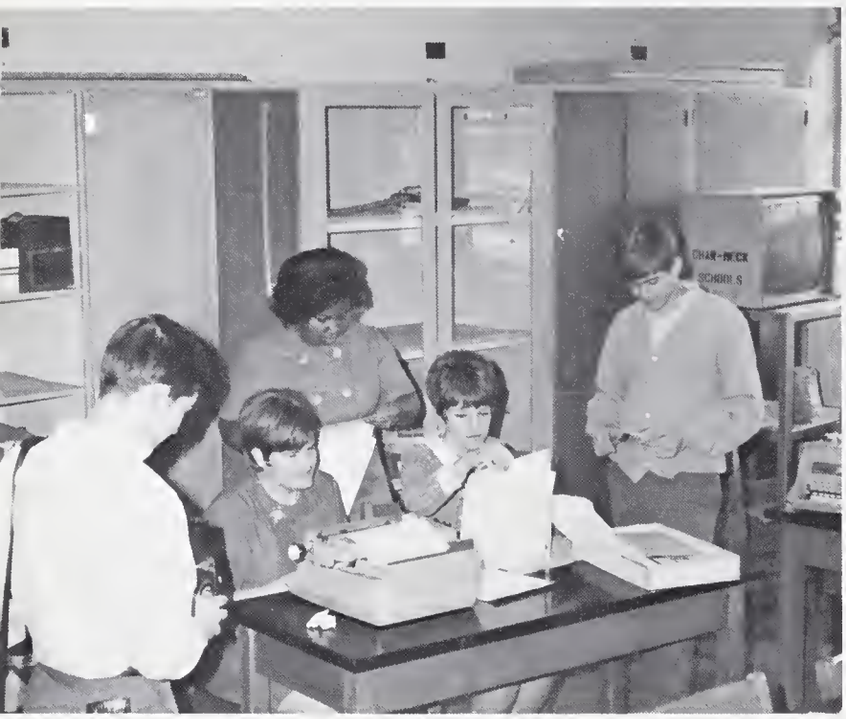
Bow and Arrow co-editors Deborah Navey and Michele Hill unload papers to be distributed to students on December 20.

Assisting the editors, first year journalism students served on the newspaper staff as reporters. In addition to learning the fundamentals of a newspaper from their editors, the juniors gained knowledge by comparing newspapers from other schools in the paper exchange. It was required that all staff members maintain at least a "B" average in English.

The Bow and Arrow having won a first class honor, Gloria Hammond and Anita Gillespie proudly display the award.

Planning artwork for the newspaper, Steve Lucky and Kathy Auten confer and share ideas for the appropriate art.

Tomahawk Staff Applies Imagination, Portrays Vivid, Active



Photographer Eddie Brinkley candidly snaps a picture of student life editor Joyce Hamm, art editor Marie Floyd, Patty Spencer, and Jerry Blackwelder.

Junior class editor Debbie Thompson, curriculum editor Jean Freeman, and production manager Viola Black carefully check proofs for mistakes and corrections.

Often working after school hours, Teresa King, editor Bill Gupton, and adviser Miss Overcash check pages before sending them to the printer.

Choosing the theme of "Seasons" for the 1969 Tomahawk, the editorial staff began work after the 1968 annual went to press. Having received first place ratings the last two years, the staff challenged themselves to create a book which all students would enjoy. Planning layouts, taking pictures, and writing copy, headlines, and captions were all a part of the seemingly endless task each editor faced. Finally completing their jobs, the staff anxiously awaited the arrival of the Tomahawk in May.

During the Christmas season, the editoral staff enjoyed dinner at Lineberger's Fish Camp. Another party was held after the final deadline in February.

Members of the business staff worked throughout the summer selling advertisements to Charlotte businesses. Student and teacher subscriptions were sold during the opening weeks of school. In May, the Tomahawk business staff members hosted an annual-signing party for all students.

During the Christmas holidays, clubs editor Ren Henderson, Barbara Sipe, and Brenda Garmon enjoy dinner at Lineberger's.

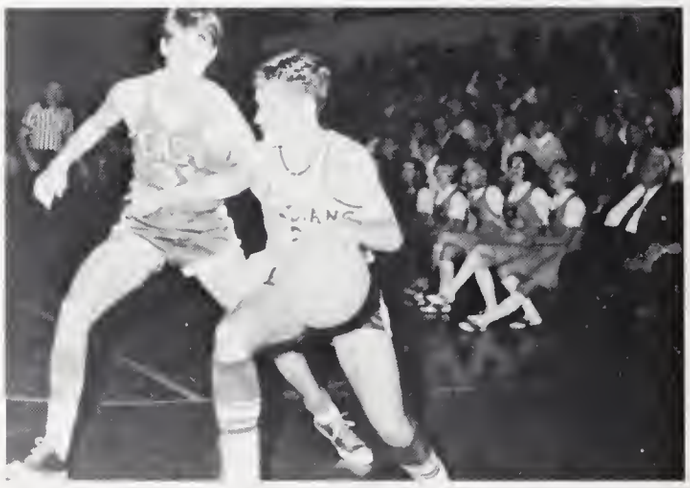
Center Doug Starnes shoots a jump shot high over a North opponent as Harold Cherry looks on anticipating a basket.

West started slowly but finished strong by winning five of the last seven games. Playmaker Charlie Bragg led the Tribe to several surprising victories late in the season. Doug Starnes, Harold Cherry, and George Beam provided adequate rebounding for the Indians' success.

After losing the first two games, the Indians defeated Hunter Huss 64–62 with Harold Cherry's last second basket. The North Rebels proved to be West's first conference victory. Rival Olympic fell to the Tribe 81–58 as thirteen Indians scored. Harold Cherry and Charlie Bragg scored eighteen and eleven points respectively.

West defeated the Myers Park Mustangs 66–61 in one of their best games. Charlie Bragg sank five of seven free throws in the dramatic closing moments to clinch the game. West defeated Olympic for the second time of the season by the score of 89–59. Calvin Tinker led the Indian scorers with nineteen points.



After taking the inbound pass, Indian Guard Charlie Bragg brings the ball downcourt by driving around a defender.

At the Indians' gym, forward George Beam goes up for the rebound after a South opponent misses a free throw.

George Beam, Russell Calomeris, and Harold Cherry watch Larry Caldwell attempt a steal against a North opponent.

Junior Varsity Basketball Team Compiles 8-12 Record

Led by the consistent scoring of sophomore Eddie Sadler, the Indians compiled an 8–12 record. In the first game of the season West defeated the East Eagles 56–49.

Losing the next five games, the Indians then defeated the North Rebels and dropped one to Ashley 37–35. After edging Garinger and Harding, West then lost to Myers Park 64–48. The Indians squeezed past the Olympic Trojans 47–45 and demolished Garinger, 58–40. After recording a mere three point win over Harding, the Indians avenged an earlier season loss to the Mustangs by defeating them 58–46. The Olympic Trojans set the Indians back in the next game 80–60.

West was eliminated in the first game of the tournament as Olympic defeated them 79–58.

In the first game of the season, Tony Mathis recovers a loose ball to help boost the junior varsity to victory.

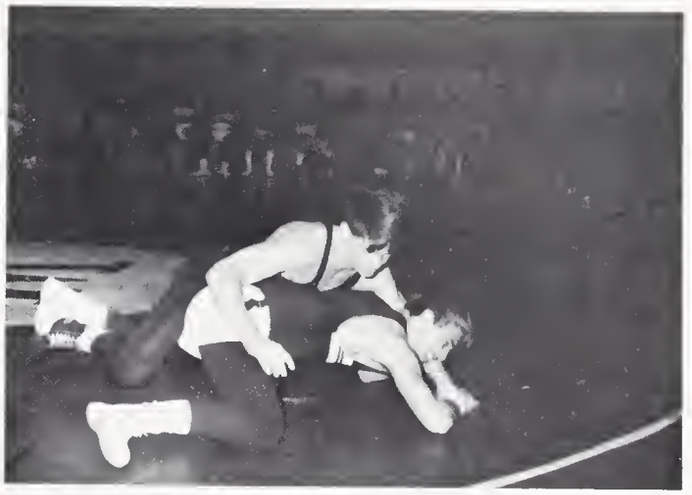
Pee Wee Abernethy eyes the basket as he executes a jump shot during a junior varsity game against Hickory.

Grapplers Finish Outstanding Season with 9-4 Record

Junior Harry Hilewitz and seniors Jack Watson and Paul Kitchens led the West grapplers to a 9–4 record, the best record West has ever had.

Starting the year off very successfully, the Indians compiled a 3–0 record by defeating Country Day, Harding, and Hickory. The grapplers then lost a heartbreaker to the South Sabres 22–21. After pinning the Huskies 34–17, West then dropped the next two matches to the Myers Park Mustangs and the Eagles of East. Edging past the North Rebels 26–24, Olympic then defeated the Indians 26–22. In their next match, West trounced the West Charlotte Lions 56–3. The Indians easily won their last three matches against North, Ashley, and Garinger.

Competing against Independence, Harding, and South, West finished just four points behind first place Independence in a four-team tournament at Independence. Finishing first in the districts in the 95-pound division, Dixon Armstrong was the only Indian grappler to advance to the state finals.

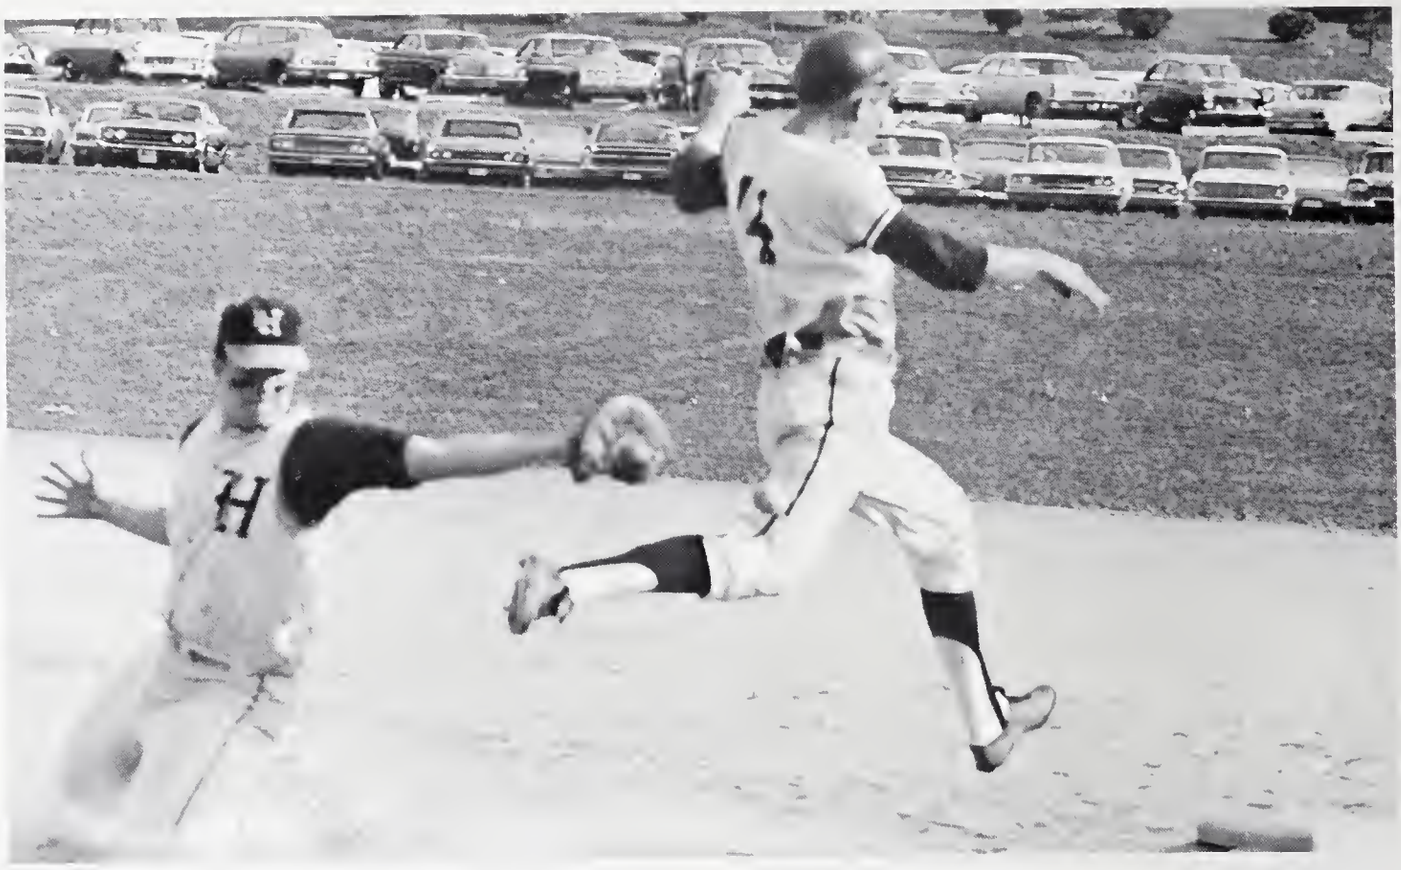


Senior Jack Watson keeps his opponent in bounds as the Indians defeat the Hunter Huss Huskies during a home match.

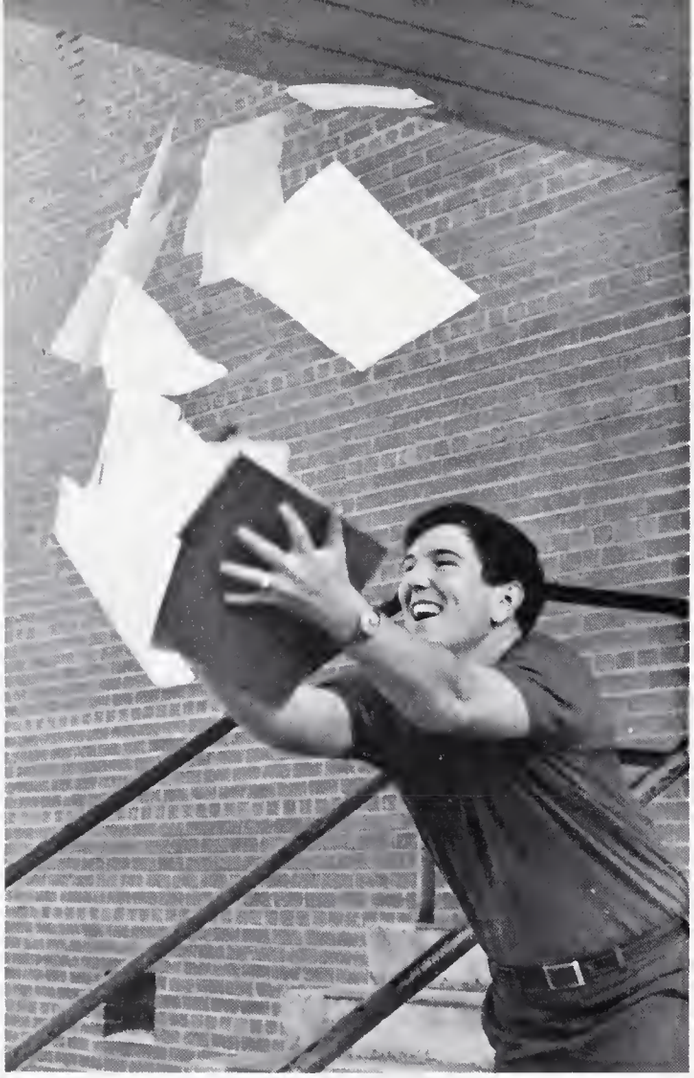
Junior Bobby Zeigler, executing the skills he has learned in practice, almost has his opposition from Ashley pinned.

Grappler Paul Kitchens tries to work himself into a good position for a pin against his opponent from Ashley.

FIRST ROW: Benson, Osborne, Anderson, Starnes, Johnson, Digh, Atwell, Newton, Horkey, Moore, Hilton. SECOND ROW: Armstrong, Hunter, B. Zeigler, Blair, J. Zeigler, Jones, Swain, Holt, Niday, Rowe, co-captain Watson, co-captain Kitchens, Wingate, Coach McArver.



Spring



Enthusiastic that the school year has finally come to an end, Woody Coggin spontaneously expressed his feelings.

Caught by a spring rain, Becky Sills, Peggy Suttle, and Cindy Hudson scurry from the parking lot to get inside.

Showers, Laziness, Typical Moods Created by Spring

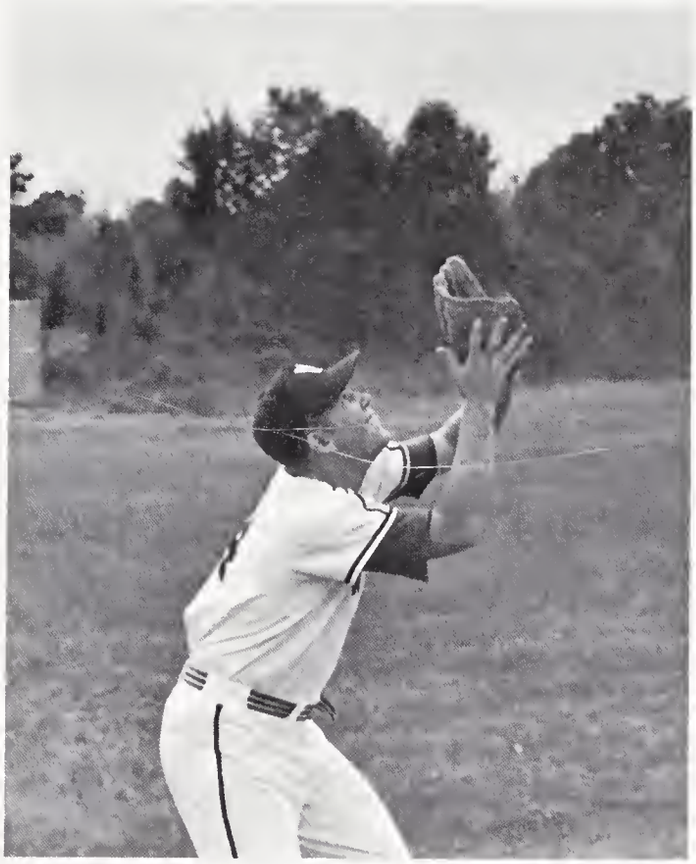
Being overcome by a feeling of spring fever, Gary Bridges pauses a few minutes during school hours to daydream.

Spring fever having a definite effect on most students, the Indians become restless as school draws near an end.

Well Rounded Athletic Agenda Provides Sports for All

Practicing after school for a local tennis match, Phil Schroeder tries his forehand swing to return the serve.

During the pole vaulting event at Myers Park, senior Pat Eaton attempts to clear the bar at 10 feet 11 inches.



Right fielder Calvin Tinker traps a high fly to climax a suspenseful inning during the game against Harding.

Bill Judson, practicing for an upcoming golf match, uses his putter to complete an eight-foot putt for a birdie.

Publication of Newspaper, Annual Explicate Student Life

Published by the Quill and Scroll, Indian Inkings, a literary publication, strives to promote creative thinking.

During homeroom period Jane Motter, President of the Camera Club, sells a 1968-69 Student Directory to Teresa King.

During homeroom period Dave Faber, a member of the Bow and Arrow staff, hands a newspaper to student Karen Elmore.

Marie Floyd and Becky Fagg complete the display of annuals by placing the 1968 Tomahawk in the showcase window.

Before distribution of newspapers to the students, Gloria Hammond checks to see if everything is in order.

In the play Harvey, Ray Heffner and Lynn Moore try to console Pam Grant who has just had a traumatic experience.

Viewing the wide variety of work by the art department, Mr. Pearson studies a painting at the Sidewalk Art Show.

Shakespearean Players Give Performance for Students

Pam Grant portrays the part of Vita Dowd in the hilarious comedy Harvey which was presented by the drama class.

Before changing into her costume, a Shakespearean actress prepares to apply her make-up for the presentation.

Jimmy Lockman and Eddie Allen displayed true fighting spirit for their candidate in a student council skit.

Along with many others, Roger Mullis relaxes to enjoy an evening of signing annuals and looking at pictures.

New Bus for School Activity

With the arrival of spring came various special activities and events. The P.T.A. sponsored its seventeenth annual barbecue. Throughout the day students and parents helped with take-out orders and served barbecue plates in the cafeteria.

Campaign week for Student Council Elections brought about another anticipated time. For a week each candidate and his supporters made posters and booster tags to aid his campaign. At the end of the week each candidate presented a speech and a skit. In addition to this, cheerleader try-outs were held with five junior varsity and nine varsity cheerleaders being chosen.

In May yearbooks were presented to the students in the cafeteria. Students received their annuals after which an annual signing party was held.

Roberta Killian, auditioning for varsity cheerleader, executes a cheer in the presence of the entire student body.

Indians eagerly awaited their turn to receive the new Tomahawk at the annual signing party held in the cafeteria.

Financed By Barbecue Sales

Mr. Schrum and students worked diligently preparing the necessary take-out orders on the annual barbecue day.

Supporting their candidate in a campaign skit, Shirby Frazier and Ray Sigmon portray a scene from Cinderella.

Helping in the cafeteria, members of the P.T.A. gave of their time and services to make the barbecue a success.

Striving for an office in the student council, Nancy Easterling delivered her campaign speech to the student body.

Bill Gupton and Debbie Thompson attempt to arrange yearbooks in alphabetical order before annual signing party.

Independence High School Mall Site of Junior-Senior

Students take break from Junior-Senior activities to enjoy the decorations and refreshments at the main table.

Climaxing the social activities of the 1967- 68 school year was the Junior-Senior Prom. Having to finance this dance, juniors worked to sell Christmas cards during October, November, and December. Spirit of the Indians was really shown when sale of cards exceeded all previous sales.

The Junior-Senior was held on May 4, 1968 at the Independence High School Mall. A huge helium filled, net covered balloon and wicker basket aided in carrying out the theme "Up, Up, and Away." Providing music for the dance were Harry Deal and the Galaxies. Guest singer Ray Armstrong sang the ever popular song "You'll Never Walk Alone." Throughout the evening, guests enjoyed the entertainment and the buffet style refreshments.

Helping with the decorations for the Junior-Senior, John Farmer and Elicia Lowe inflate an enormous balloon.

Guest performer Ray Armstrong sings the popular song "You'll Never Walk Alone" at the traditional Junior-Senior.

Pausing after a dance, students stop to admire decorations which helped enhance the theme "Up, Up, and Away."

Faculty members, Miss Cash, Miss Beatty, Mrs. Hunsucker, and Mrs. Atnip enjoy refreshments at the Junior-Senior.

Attending the Junior-Senior, G. Beam and J. Bolick enjoy a night of dancing with music provided by the Galaxies.

Couples honored in special dance for Junior-Senior Class Officers with music provided by Harry Deal and the Galaxies at the Junior-Senior Prom, which was held in the Independence High School Mall on May 4, 1968.

Crowning Year for Seniors

Scared but happy seniors Barbara Baker and Deborah Berry silently awaited the presentation of their diplomas.

"Graduation was their quest" and they conquered it. Reaching the goals of high school and making new ones for the future, Seniors marched proudly into the gym on Senior Awards Day. They took their places with pride and honor as juniors and sophomores looked on enviously.

Serving as escorts for the Seniors were eighteen Junior Marshals. They accompanied Seniors to the baccalaurcatc service and graduation. Junior Marshals were chosen on the basis of their academic ability and outstanding performance during the year.

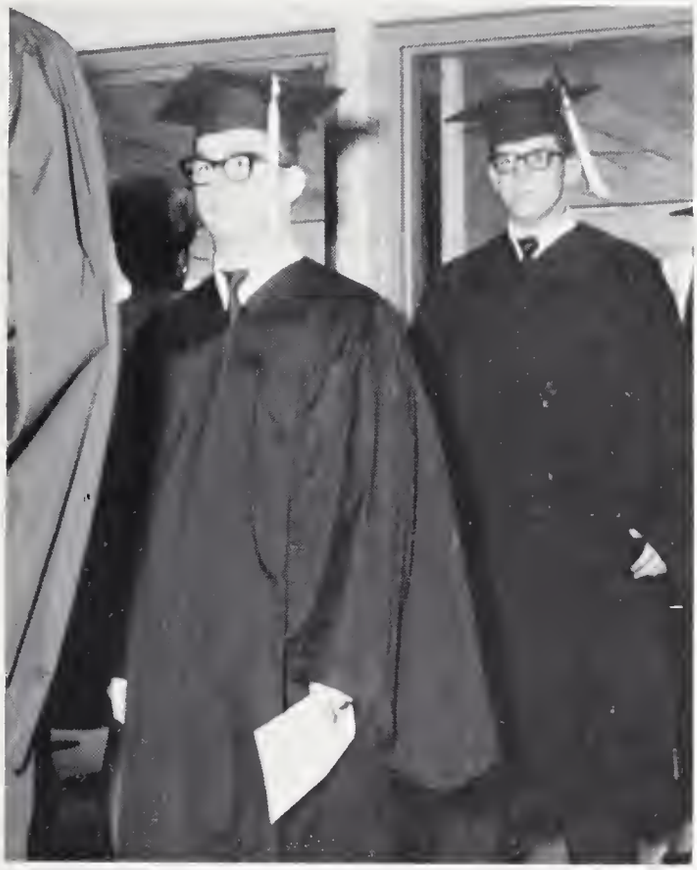
All graduating seniors of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg area were recognized at the baccalaureate service. Special rccognition was given to each Senior Class President for they participated in the program.

Climaxing the graduation activities was the commencement service held at Ovens Auditorium , June 5, 1968. After the address was given by Mr. Glen Keever, graduates received their diplomas.

Receiving an award on behalf of the student body, William McNeil is given the School Spirit Trophy by WAYS Radio.

Proudly walking across the stage at Ovens Auditorium, a graduate gladly receives his diploma from Mr. Wright.

Was Awards Day, Graduation



Seniors Mike Rhom and Norman Roland marched into the gymnasium to attend the assembly for Senior Awards Day.

Making the presentations for Senior Awards Day, Mr. Wright presents Bobby Houston with the Agriculture Award.

C. Springs, D. Thompson, P. Sloan, P. Suttle, L. Tompkins, V. Black, M. Floyd, D. Navey, B. Sadler, L. Abernathy, L. Mitchell, B. Gupton, C. Bridges, M. Mozely, and L. Bostian served as marshals for graduation.

Fulfilling their duties as marshals, Cheri Sherrill and Cathy Raborn give out programs at gym door on Awards Day.

Ten Most Outstanding Seniors Exemplify Victorious Year,

As in previous years, the Tomahawk staff sponsored the selection of the Ten Outstanding Seniors. Selection was made by a student-faculty committee which was comprised of six faculty members and the president and vice-president of the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes.

Undertaking the difficult task of choosing these students, the committee members discussed the qualities of leadership, scholarship, citizenship, character, and service of each student. The ten seniors who received this coveted honor possessed qualities which represented the ideals of West. These students gave years of dedicated and unselfish service to their school and community.

Program chairman R. Killian makes a phone call to L. Stuart inquiring about a topic for Student Council meeting.

Bill Gupton, Editor of the Tomahawk, sorts out extra pictures to sell to students at the end of the school year.

Weighing out cupric bromide on a triple beam balance, Marie Floyd prepares to do an experiment in Chemistry.

Pausing from his studies in the library, Mike Bass stops to gather his thoughts, preparing to write a term paper.

Before half-time at a basketball game, majorette, Brenda Sadler, pauses at the mirror to straighten her crown.

High Goals, Devotion, Service

Creating a patriotic atmosphere at football games, V. Hatley carried the national flag for half-time performances.

Meeting at the home of a member, president of the Key Club, Mike James, conducts a monthly business session.

Fulfilling her duty as a Varsity Cheerleader, Chris Edwards leads Indian spectators in a victory cheer.

After selling tickets to a dance, J. Freeman, social committee chairman, stops to count the money she received.

Along with school activities, Nancy Easterling also enjoys an outside interest as a model for Belk's Teen Board.

Preparing for a win over East are Senior Class officers Reggie King, vice-president, and Bill Gupton, president.

Class secretary Roberta Killian and treasurer Linda Crowder discuss selection for Senior Class motto and flower.

As Final Days of High School Near, Enthusiastic Senior

Morehead Scholarship Nominees – Larry Bostian, Bill Gupton, Larry Mitchell, and Terry Taylor – scan college handbooks in the guidance office and discuss their plans following graduation from high school.

Anticipating graduation, seniors endeavored to broaden their knowledge through education and work experience. Extracurricular activities provided opportunity to gain maturity and responsibility through service.

Show Exuberant School Spirit

Members of the Senior Class experienced a sense of self-satisfaction with the realization that they were entering their final year of high school. Months of anticipation ended with the arrival and distribution of senior rings on September 12.

Supporting a winning football team, seniors faithfully attended the games and continued steady attendance to all sports events during the year.

"Make every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope" became the class motto with the yellow rose as the class flower. Privileges enjoyed by the Senior Class included the selection of candidates for Carousel Princess, Miss Tomahawk, and Mr. and Miss West.

In preparation for graduation, seniors ordered calling cards and announcements on December 9. College board examinations in December provided an opportunity for students to prepare for college entrance. Counselors in the guidance office offered advice to inquiring students.

Extending a warm and hearty greeting to the foreign exchange student, the Senior Class welcomed Maria Armendariz, a student from Argentina. As a worthy Indian, she participated actively in school activities.

Honored at the Junior-Senior Prom on May 17, seniors danced to the music of Loonis McGlohan and his Orchestra. Independence High School provided an appropriate setting for this gala event. As a special honor, Junior-Senior charms and tie tacks were presented to each Senior.

Climaxing a year of excitement, anticipation, and accomplishment, reluctant seniors bade a farewell to West Mecklenburg on June 4. Graduation ceremonies were held at 2:00 in Ovens Auditorium. As well-prepared graduates, the Class of 1969 stepped forth into the world to accept their roles as adults.

West is Best – these three words symbolize the exuberant school spirit shared by all members of the Senior Class.

Taking orders for class rings, Cathy Raborn gives instructions to Sylvia McClamrock and records the size and style.

The Student Council, consisting of committee chairmen, class presidents, homeroom presidents, and the editors and business managers of the Tomahawk and the Bow and Arrow, met every two weeks. The newly organized Executive Council met every two weeks also in order that projects, suggestions, and ideas might be thoroughly discussed before presenting them to the student body.

While striving to promote leadership, scholarship, and fellowship, the Student Council encouraged better student-faculty cooperation. For the first time, the council sponsored two fund raising projects. In the fall, "Tacky Indian Day" was held during the week of homecoming. A Spring Follies was staged later in the year. The Student Council also sponsored three dances during the year.

Devotional Committee chairman Viola Black begins Student Council meeting with an inspiring message on daily life.

Resuming the duties of Devotion Committee chairman, Viola Black opened each Student Council meeting with an inspirational devotion.

School Spirit Committee co-chairmen Polly Sloan and Bill Cash headed one of the most active committees. Meeting each week, enthusiastic committee members made banners announcing upcoming games. These signs and posters resulted in greater student support of all athletic events. Students eagerly supported the pep rallies staged by the School Spirit Committee. Booster badges and pins were sold throughout the year. Achieving their main goal, the School Spirit Committee promoted better sportsmanship and school spirit through student involvement and participation.

Endeavoring to gain more enthusiastic support of the faculty and students, School Spirit Committee members Bill Cash, Rusty Lee, and Harriet Howie post a sign announcing the West-Ashley basketball game.

Benefit of Students, Introduces Thoughts of Test Schedule

Cathy Springs and Ren Henderson paint a horn of plenty to be used as a Thanksgiving decoration.

Capturing the spirit of each holiday season, the Cafeteria Committee created a festive, enjoyable atmosphere for eating. Led by Cathy Springs, committee members decorated for Christmas, Thanksgiving, Valentine's Day, and Easter. The Cafeteria Committee also cooperated with the Social Committee in decorating for the Christmas dance.

Serving as Social Committee co-chairmen, Brenda Sadler, and Jean Freeman were responsible for planning the school's social functions. Starting with the homecoming dance in November, three dances were sponsored by the Student Council. A semi-formal dance, "Visions of Sugarplums", highlighted the Christmas season. A Sadie Hawkins dance followed in the spring.

C.E.S.P. Committee members help Argentine exchange student Maria Armendariz celebrate her birthday during lunch.

C.E.S.P. Committee activated prior to the opening of school, hosted a welcoming party for Maria Armendariz, exchange student from Argentina. Led by Nancy Easterling, the committee also held a reception for Chilean Gabriela Moreno, who arrived in January. By involving the two exchange students in school and community activities, the Charlotte Exchange Student Program strove to help them feel at home in the United States. The committee was also responsible for screening West applicants who wished to spend a summer abroad.

Under the leadership of Ren Henderson, the House and Grounds Committee sponsored the Christmas door decoration contest. Helping to heighten the spirit of the season, the committee awarded prizes in religious and secular categories.

Executive Council members review changes in the proposed Point System before presenting it to Student Council.

Contemplating new ideas for tribal code, Constitution Committee chairman, Larry Bostian, works out amendments.

David Jetton performs duty of Elections Committee chairman as he tabulates the votes in recent school election.

Being responsible for publicizing all dances, the Publicity Committee often worked with the Social Committee. Led by Joyce Hamm, committee members sponsored Student Council Week during March.

Constitution Committee chairman Larry Bostian was responsible for amending the Point System. Upon completion of this task, the committee discussed the possibility of an honor system and a test schedule.

David Jetton headed the newly formed Elections Committee which conducted and tallied votes for all Student Council-sponsored elections. Procedures for election of Student Council officers were reviewed and amended. Members of the Hospitality Committee, under the direction of Lane Abernathy sent Christmas cards to the faculty and to servicemen in Vietnam.

Interclub Council Encourages Organized Club Activity

Volunteers move the giant pumpkin to be used in homecoming halftime activities sponsored by the Interclub Council.

As a member of the Interclub Council, Jane Motter compiles club and athletic activities for the school calendar.

Meeting whenever necessary, the Interclub Council strove to coordinate all club activities and services. The members, who included all club presidents in addition to the editors and business managers of the Tomahawk and the Bow and Arrow, informed the students of current club and school activities through maintaining a calendar in front hall. The council also sponsored the homecoming halftime activities.

Youth Council Recruits Talent for Festival in the Park

In its third year of service, the Youth Council strove to promote a better relationship between youth and adults. Among the community service projects it encouraged, the West Mecklenburg Chapter joined with other schools in sponsoring the Festival in the Park. To bring into action the concern for problems facing today's youth, the organization met with all Charlotte Youth Councils at the Y.W.C.A.

Key Club member Bill Cash examines the toys contributed by students for children at the Western Carolina Center.

Key Club members were chosen on the basis of scholastic average, citizenship, and faculty approval. The club strove to develop initiative and leadership in its members.

To provide experience in living and in working together, clubbists aided the school and community through special service projects. Raising and lowering the flag was a year long duty of Key Club members. Aiding the athletic department, clubbists ushered at each basketball game. Sending toys to needy children at the Western Carolina Center, issueing text books, and directing student parking were included among the many service projects. Highlighting the year's activities were two Key Club conventions, and a special banquet honoring the members fathers. Candy was also sold as a fund raising project.

At the annual Christmas party, President Mike James presents the Key Club bracelet to sweetheart Peggy Suttle.

Using Drive Funds, Red Cross Buys Beds for Vietnam

First Row: Hagler, historian Biggers, vice president Sadler, president Logan, secretary Elliot, treasurer Keistler, Buchanan, Heath, Alvis. Second Row: Jones, Ammons, Boone, Anderson, Dellinger, Reynolds, Bizzell, Hood. Third Row: Pittman, Price, Simmons, Frye, Brotherton, Lutz, Hammond, Suttle. Fourth Row: adviser Hagler, Gillespie, Anderson, Sipe, McClure, Plummer, Gunnells, Dixon, Diggs.

Beginning a very active year, the Red Cross Club started its activities with the annual fund raising drive. Collecting over three hundred dollars, the club gave an award for the class donating the most money. This money helped members reach their second goal: the sending of three beds to a Vietnamese hospital. Through the completion of these projects, clubbists hoped to promote a spirit of helping one another among the students. The only requirement for membership in this club was having an interest in the club and its projects.

Working in the library, Brenda Sadler and Debbie Keistler cut out cross word puzzles to send to Vietnam servicemen.

Vice-president Brenda Sadler and treasurer Debbie Keistler make valentines for the teachers as a Red Cross project.

Strong Pitching Staff, Powerful Offense, Spark Indians

Powered by a stingy defense, and an explosive offense, the Indians finished the season in second place in the Southwestern 4-A Conference, Division 7. The tribe averaged 6.1 runs per game while holding its opponents to a mere 1.3 runs per game. Tommy Russell finished the season with a perfect 6-0 record including a no-hitter against Gastonia Ashley. Other outstanding individuals included Johnny Severs and Baxter Bridges who were selected for the All- Mecklenburg County baseball team.

In the opening game George Beam blanked Lincolnton by thc score of 2-0. West faced Harding in their fourth game. George Beam pitched a two-hitter to lead the Indians to victory. Tommy Russell pitched a six hitter as the tribe defeated Myers Park in the following game. Johnny Severs' sacrifice fly and singles by Bridges, Brookshire, Turner, Cash and Cherry put the Mustangs on the ropes.

West was handed its first defeat at the hands of North by the score of 5-0. The Indians went on the warpath against Second Ward, defeating them by the score of 18-1. George Beam and Mike Plummer combined to pitch a two-hitter as the Indians bombed Gastonia Ashley 15-0.

West scored a hard fought victory by defeating Myers Park 2-1. In the next to last game Tommy Russell pitched a one-hitter shutting out Olympic 5-0. Demolishing Second Ward 15-0, West finished a finc season.

Assistant coach Clyde Peek gives Tommy Russell an encouraging pat on the back after pitching a fine inning.

After hitting a homerun against Second Ward, shortstop Charles Justice is congratulated by the Indian squad.

West Head Coach Carl Bolick expresses his displeasure and argues in vain against the call made by the umpire.

George Beam winds up to release the final pitch of the West-Myers Park game as third baseman Billy Cash looks on.

SCOREBOARD

West 2	Lincolnton 0
West 5	Hickory 1

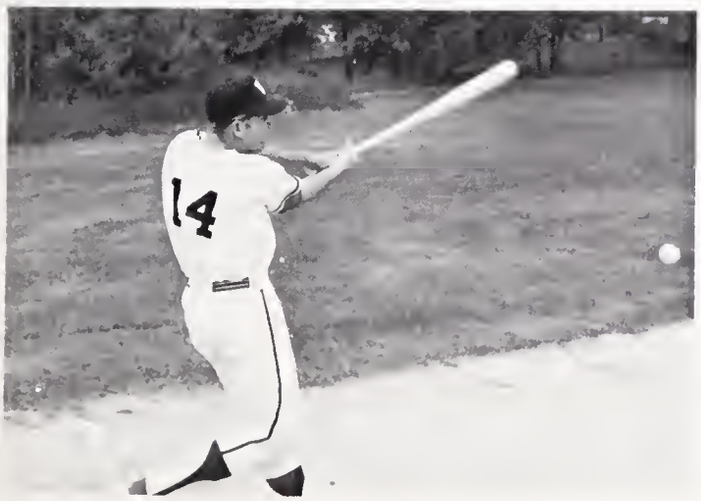
West 2	Myers Park 1
West 2	North 5
West 5	Olympic 0
West 15	S. Ward C

During a home game, George Beam fields a bunt as third baseman Billy Cash rushes in to assist him on the play.

Right fielder Calvin Tinker shows his skill at the plate as he slams a base hit against the Tigers of Second Ward.



Baxter Bridges rests on second base as Harding's shortstop picks himself up after failing to put Bridges out.

Eaton Sparks Golfers to Seventh Place in Tournament

Senior golfer Don High lines up a long breaking putt on one of the rougher greens at Sunset Hills Golf Course.

Tim Eaton, improving his stroke average from 40.1 to 39.8, led the golf team. There were more boys participating than ever before; however, the Indian golfers finished in seventh place out of a thirteen team field in the Southwestern 4-A Conference Tournament.

Although the team was plauged with inexperience, seniors Bill Judson and Don High and juniors Reggie King and Rusty Lee showed marked improvement.

In his sixteenth year as head coach, Mr. Moseley continued to play a vital role in the improvement and progress of the golf team. With his guidance the team learned both correctness and courtesy.

Reggie King shows his skill on the green which keeps him in contention with the leaders during a match at Cedarwood.

First Row:Glenn Kiser, Clint Wright, Reggie King, Mike Thomason, Ricky Donat.

Second Row:Randy Dixon, Rusty Lee, Don High, Bill Gupton, Dickie Lesley.

Helms, Jones Obtain GAA Doubles Tennis Tournament

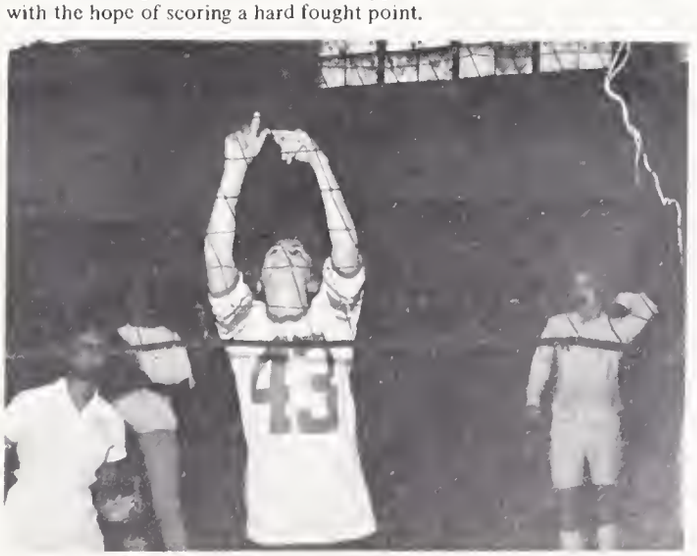
During the teacher-student volleyball game, Marsha Helms spikes the ball over the net as Mrs. Avery looks on.

Under the leadership of its advisor, Miss Mary Jane Gunter, Brenda Jones, the president, and the vice president Marsha Helms, the Girls' Athletic Association reorganized its club. Every Tuesday the girls stayed after school to participate in many athletic events.

Members received pins instead of letters which are presented on Awards Day. The pins are determined by the number of points a girl accumulates during her membership in the club.

Winners of the doubles tournaments were Marsha Helms and Brenda Jones. A course in riflery began November 19 and lasted three weeks. Mr. Dozier Murray instructed the course. Basketball was another favorite sport which was played.

After returning the serve of teacher opponents, Lou Ann Lutz watches with the hope of scoring a hard fought point.



Helms, Alexander, McGee Highlight Successful Season

Led by some outstanding individuals, the West tracksters finished with four first places. In the other meets the team finished no lower than fifth place. Good depth and hard work attributed to the Indians' success.

Starting the year off, West finished fifth in an indoor track meet at the University of North Carolina. In the following meet the Indians finished second, three points behind the Garinger Wildcats. The Indians won the next four meets. In a two team meet, South defeated West by four points. Following this meet the Indians finished third in the North Invitational, fourth in the Queen City Relays, third in the Southwestern 4-A Conference, and fifth in the sectional meet.

Setting three school records, Bobby Helms could be considered one of the most outstanding on the team; however, Johnny Alexander was the second leading scorer, and David McGee set the school record in the shot put.

Showing good form, sophomore Don Mull easily clears the high jump bar during a track meet at the Myers Park Stadium.

Preparing for the meet with the Myers Park Mustangs, Jimmy Reynolds makes some practice throws with the shot put.

Netters Obtain Ability, Learn Technique During Season

Tennis is a sport which requires endurance and co-ordination. Long hours spent in practice aided the players in acquiring the fundamentals necessary to win their matches.

Winning their first match against Garinger by the score of 5-4, the Indian netters then lost to the Eagles and to Gastonia. West defeated Olympic by the score of 7-2 and their last victory came when they defeated Independence by the score of 7-2.

Although their season's record was three wins against eight losses, four of the eight losses were by only one point. Mike Bingham, Charles Burgin, Tommy Primm, and Phil Schroeder could be considered top members of the team.

Able racketeer Tommy Primm shows polished skill as the warring Indians battle West Charlotte in a singles match.

Senior netter Mike Bingham gets ready to return the ball in a clutch match against the Mustangs of Myers Park.

ALMA MATER

Hear beneath dear West High's banner
Pass our days of youth
Swiftly fleeting n'er returning
Guided yet by truth.

Friendship, guidance, truth, and love,
All these you will find
Lingering still in quiet corners
Always in our minds.

As the final day of school ends, the empty halls echo the memories of 180 days, nine months, four seasons – a lifetime.

It has been the sincere hope of the 1969 Tomahawk Staff that we have been able to show the life and activities of the school from "Season" to "Season." The long hours of planning, writing, drawing, and checking are now over. To the many people who helped make the 1969 Tomahawk possible, we extend our grateful appreciation.

Surely, this year has been one of the greatest at West. We end the year with mixed emotions, but the awareness of new challenges reminds us that yesterday is gone forever. We have today, but let us never forget there is always tomorrow – uncharted, unanswered, unconquered.

To everything there is a SEASON,
And a time to every purpose under heaven.
A time to be born, and a time to die.
A time to break down, and a time to build up.
A time to weep, and a time to laugh.
A time to mourn, and a time to dance.
A time to get, and a time to lose.
A time to keep, and a time to cast away.
A time to keep silent, and a time to speak.
A time to love, and a time to hate.
A time of war, and a time of peace.
